AUSTRALIAN WAR MEMORIAL
ANNUAL REPORT 2016–2017

Annual report for the year ended 30 June 2017, together with the financial statements and the report of the Auditor-General
The Hon Dan Tehan
Minister for Veterans’ Affairs
Minister Assisting the Prime Minister for the Centenary of ANZAC Minister Assisting the Prime Minister for Cyber Security
Minister for Defence Personnel

Dear Minister

On behalf of the Council of the Australian War Memorial, I am delighted to present to you, for presentation to each House of Parliament, the Annual Report for the Australian War Memorial for the reporting year 1 July 2016 to 30 June 2017.

This report is submitted to you in accordance with the Australian War Memorial Act 1980 section 46 of the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013 (the Act), and the requirements set out in the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Rule 2014, which detail the annual reporting requirements for corporate Commonwealth entities.

Included in this report are the 2016-17 annual performance statements for the Australian War Memorial, as required under section 29 of the Act. In my opinion, these annual performance statements are based on properly maintained records, accurately reflect the Memorial’s financial performance, and comply with subsection 39(2) of the Act.

Mr Kerry Stokes AC
Chairman of the Council

Dr Brendan Nelson
Director

Here is their spirit in the heart of the land they loved; and here we guard the record which they themselves made. C.E.W. Bean

COMPLIANCE INDEX 156

INDEX 159
The Annual Report of the Australian War Memorial for the year ended 30 June 2017 was produced in the format for an annual report for a corporate Commonwealth entity under the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013 (the PGPA Act).

To assist entities to understand and comply with their obligations under the PGPA Act, the Department of Finance has issued the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Rule 2014 (the Rules), and Resource Management Guide (RMG) No. 136 Annual reports for corporate Commonwealth entities. The following report is prepared in accordance with the Act, the Rules and RMG 136.

In keeping with the intention of these documents, this report aims to provide a report into the operations of the Australian War Memorial, providing clear linkages between its Portfolio Budget Statements, Corporate Plan, and day-to-day operations.
In support of these program components, the Memorial has determined a suite of internal objectives:

- Program Component 1.9
  Corporate Governance

- Program Component 1.10
  Executive Strategic Management

- Program Component 1.11
  Resource Management

- Program Component 1.12
  Revenue Generation

- Program Component 1.13
  Team Management

This report is organised into seven parts:

PART ONE

PART TWO
Corporate Operations includes the Director’s Address and overview of the Memorial’s performance during 2016–17.

PART THREE
Corporate Summary provides information on the structure and reporting framework of the Memorial.

PART FOUR
Annual Performance Statements details the Memorial’s performance information against the Memorial’s outcome and against external and internal outputs.

PART FIVE
Legislative Framework and External Scrutiny provides detailed information about the Memorial as required for reporting.

PART SIX
Financial Statements includes the report by the Auditor-General and Financial Statements

PART SEVEN
Appendices provide additional information about the memorial, including staff profiles, collection acquisitions and disposals, and major sponsors.

CHAIRMAN’S ADDRESS

The profile and place of the Australian War Memorial in Australian life goes from strength to strength. Its embrace by Australians from all backgrounds, of all ages, and from all parts of the nation is perhaps the most rewarding aspect of the work of Council members, staff, and volunteers.

On a crisp and clear Canberra morning on 4 April, I was privileged to participate with other Council members in the dedication of the Flanders Memorial Garden in the Memorial grounds. We watched with quiet reverence as sacred soil from Flanders was mixed with soil from significant locations and military heritage sites from each Australian state and territory and placed in the garden. This important ceremony was a fitting and solemn tribute to the men of the Australian Imperial Force who lost their lives or became casualties in the fighting around Passchendaele in 1917. The previous evening, the sacred soil had been marched past the names listed on the First World War Roll of Honour by Australia’s Federation Guard and placed in the Hall of Memory, adjacent to the Tomb of the Unknown Australian Soldier.

The Australian War Memorial safeguards the memory of those who served and died, and whose sacrifice defines what it means to be Australian. The Flanders Memorial Garden ceremonies demonstrated the continuing importance of the Memorial’s role as the soul of our nation, and the national place for commemorating Australia’s experience of war.

As the Memorial reached its 75th year, Council focused on ensuring that the stories of the last 100 years were told and that those of the next 100 years could be realised.

The centenary of the First World War is a priority for Council, with one of the most important initiatives being the delivery of the Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience. Touring Australia, with the support of the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, the Commonwealth Bank, and Telstra, SACE reached 23 locations and more than 368,016 people across the country. The connection to our history and culture felt by the visitors was evident from the many glowing expressions of appreciation the Memorial received from each local community.

The reach of our commemorations of Australian sacrifice extended internationally with the loan of the Menin Gate lions to the City of Ieper. The dedication ceremony of the lions at the Menin Gate on the eve of Anzac Day reinforced the enduring relationship between Australia and Belgium, and in particular the people of Flanders, because of our shared history as allies in the First World War, and the extent of sacrifice in the Third Battle of Ypres in 1917.

As we move towards the end of the centenary period, the Memorial is focused on ensuring Remembrance Day 2018 presents an opportunity for Australians to remember and reflect on the Armistice and all that came before it — to remember the 62,000 lives that were lost during the First World War.
Looking to the future, it is essential that the Memorial offers past and present service personnel and their families and friends a place to reflect on their service and sacrifice, today – they should not have to wait a generation to see their stories told. Every member of Council is committed to ensuring we honour their service, preserve their heritage, and tell the stories of our Australian forces in accordance with Charles Bean’s vision for a world-class memorial, museum, and archive.

Council has a bold plan for the Memorial’s long-term future, to ensure it can continue to deliver on its mission and purpose, and we welcome the government’s approval in the May budget of funding for a business case to allow us to continue telling the stories of those who have served.

The redevelopment concept will see increased and improved exhibition space, collection storage, and visitor amenities, as well as new galleries, an education centre for school visitors, a larger theatre, orientation space, and room for large technology from contemporary conflicts and operations.

Council is committed to the development of the Memorial’s long-term collection storage needs at Mitchell. Development of the Mitchell site enables the Memorial to collect significant artefacts from a generation of service as the Australian Defence Force replaces its technology on land, sea, and in the air. This investment will safeguard our priceless National Collection, and ensure that the stories of our current serving personnel and veterans are preserved and can be told.

During the 2016–17 financial year, Council oversaw the Memorial’s advancement of its strategic purpose and direction as outlined in the Corporate Plan.

We have seen developments in the digital arena as we move to ensure the Memorial’s stories are accessible to every Australian, and are internationally available. Council approved the Digital Engagement Strategy in November 2016 and has been pleased to see the popular and moving Last Post Ceremony broadcast daily to up to 200,000 viewers.

The launch of the For Country, for Nation exhibition in September 2016 was an opportunity for all Memorial visitors to hear the stories of service and sacrifice of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples told in their own voices. This reflects the Memorial’s commitment to reconciliation through its Reconciliation Action Plan, and work done over the last decade and more to identify Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander service personnel whose stories have not been told.

Three important official history projects have progressed over the past 12 months. Volume V, The good neighbour: Australian peace support operations in the Pacific Islands, 1980–2006 of the Official history of Australian peacekeeping, humanitarian and post-Cold War operations, was officially launched on 5 July 2016 by the Hon. John Howard OM AC at the Australian War Memorial.

The official histories of East Timor, Iraq and Afghanistan project is underway, and will document the history of Australia’s involvement in recent conflicts.

The Memorial has commissioned a history of the medical legacies from the Vietnam War, which will document medical issues, both physical and psychological, related to this conflict.

Through the Memorial’s focus on public engagement and outreach, the past year has seen continued interest in commemorating the sacrifice of those Australians who have served, with strong attendance at the national ceremonies of Anzac Day and Remembrance Day.

Continued engagement, support, and recognition of serving personnel and veterans is essential in allowing us to properly tell their stories.

From 16–18 August 2016, the Memorial shared a significant milestone with Vietnam veterans, helping them to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the battle of Long Tan and Vietnam Veterans Day. Over these two days one of the most special events was a private performance given by John Schumann of his iconic song, I was only 19, to the veterans in the Hall of Memory.

A personal highlight of the year was the opportunity for me to meet our Memorial volunteers at their annual meeting in November 2016. The Australian War Memorial is blessed to have these many selfless men and women who volunteer their time to ensure this wonderful institution remains relevant to each and every Australian.

On behalf of Council I want to thank retiring Council member, Ms Jillian Segal AM, for her service as Chair of the Council’s Finance, Audit and Compliance Committee.

The Council has welcomed Ms Margaret Jackson AC, who has been appointed for a three-year term from June 2017, and we were pleased to see the reappointment of longstanding member, Mr Les Carlyon AC, who has received a further three-year term on Council, also from June 2017. I was also honoured to accept a further three-year appointment.

Council also gratefully acknowledges the three service chiefs (ex officio): Vice Admiral Tim Barret AO CSC RAN; Lieutenant General Angus Campbell AO DSC; and Air Marshal Leo Davies AO CSC for their contribution to Council. Their steadfast support to the Memorial is generously given and very much appreciated.
Finally, Council would like to thank the Memorial management, Leanne Patterson, Anne Bennie, Tim Sullivan, and Brendan Nelson. In an environment of fiscal restraint and challenge, they continually prove their dedication to the Memorial and their professionalism. I would also like to thank the staff of the Memorial and the information officers who volunteer their time. Their tireless efforts and dedication to this wonderful Memorial is truly inspiring.

Mr Kerry Stokes AC
Chairman

Mr Kerry Stokes, Chairman of the Council of the Memorial, and Ms Anita Herczegh attend a Last Post Ceremony commemorating Lance Corporal Luke Nathan Gavin.

Mr Lee Hsien Loong, Prime Minister of the Republic of Singapore, and Mrs Lee Helen Loong visit the Australian War Memorial escorted by Dr Brendan Nelson and Mr Kerry Stokes.
The Memorial is honoured to welcome visitors from across the world including the President of Afghanistan, Ashraf Ghani Ahmadzai; Leidos Australia senior executives; the Prime Minister of Bhutan, Tshering Tobgay; Mr Christophe Lecourtier, Ambassador of France in Australia and delegation; Mr Kim Young-woo, Chair of the National Defence Committee, Republic of Korea and delegation; King Willem-Alexander and Queen Máxima of the Netherlands.
Governance Structure

The Australian War Memorial was established as a statutory authority under, and draws its authority from, the Australian War Memorial Act 1980 (the Act). The Act allows for the appointment of a Council and a Director as Chief Executive Officer of the Memorial.

The performance of the Memorial and the accountability of its Council and management are subject to the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013, which imposes key reporting, financial, and pecuniary obligations on the Memorial and its Council members. Many of these are modelled on provisions which apply under corporations’ law, particularly those for directors.

The Memorial is subject to other acts that bear on its operation, and is accountable to the government through the Minister for Veterans’ Affairs. It has a strong link to the Department of Finance for budgetary processes, appropriations, grants, and financial management processes, and it follows the advice and guidance provided by the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO). The Memorial adheres to Australian accounting standards in the preparation of its financial reports and follows best practice in its financial management.

COUNCIL OF THE MEMORIAL

The Council of the Australian War Memorial is established by section 9 of the Act.

The Council is responsible for the conduct and control of the affairs of the Memorial, and the policy of the Memorial with respect to any matters as determined by the Council. In particular, the Council:

- establishes the strategic direction and vision of the Memorial
- approves the goals and key objectives of the Memorial
- approves the annual budget and monitors expenditure and financial reporting, including for major projects
- ensures agreed corporate objectives are met
- adopts a strategic plan, which includes a business plan with objectives and key reporting measures
- ensures the Memorial has adequate financial resources to meet known and planned future commitments
- ensures that systems, processes, and internal controls are in place for effective management and monitoring of the principal risks to which the Memorial is exposed
- ensures that satisfactory procedures are in place for auditing the Memorial’s financial affairs and that the scope of internal and external audit is adequate ensures decisions made are consistent with the ethos of the Memorial ensures that the Memorial communicates effectively with the public and key stakeholders monitors and evaluates the performance of the Director.

Council performance
Council reviews its performance at least once a year in terms of the achievement of targets associated with the outputs specified in the Business Plan. A report on Council activities is included under Internal Output 1.9, on page 81.

New Council members are expected to undertake orientation training before attending a Council meeting, and all are provided with a manual outlining the functioning of the Council in terms of applicable acts and members’ responsibilities.

Section 18 of the Act empowers Council to constitute committees to assist Council in the execution of its functions and responsibilities. Accordingly, Council has established three Committees: the Finance, Audit and Compliance Committee (FACC); the Remuneration Committee; and the Roll of Honour Committee.

Council Committee membership
The Chief of Navy, the Chief of Army, and the Chief of Air Force (ex officio members of Council) are usually not formally Committee members, but are invited to attend all Standing Committee meetings other than Remuneration.

Outgoing members
Ms Jillian Segal AM – term concluded 18 June 2017

Incoming members
Ms Margaret Jackson AC – appointed 27 June 2017

Profiles of Council Members can be found in Appendix 1.

FINANCE, AUDIT AND COMPLIANCE COMMITTEE (FACC)
Constituted by a mix of Council members and independent members, the Finance, Audit and Compliance Committee (FACC) is established as an advisory committee to provide independent assurance and advice to Council on:
- the Memorial’s risk, control, and compliance framework
- finance statement responsibilities
- legislative and policy compliance
- internal and external audit activities.
- To assist FACC in its responsibilities, the following sub-committees are established:
  - Audit and Risk Sub-committee
  - Finance and Budget Sub-committee.

DIRECTOR’S ADDRESS

In July 1916, during the bloody fighting around Pozières a mortally wounded Australian soldier asked Australia’s official First World War Historian Charles Bean a simple but important question:

“Will they remember me in Australia?”

Those words would inspire Bean to conceive the Australian War Memorial and resolve that at the war’s end he would build the finest museum and memorial to the men of the Australian Imperial Force and nurses, an ambition he achieved when the Memorial was officially opened on Remembrance Day 1941.

In 2016–17, as we marked the 75th anniversary of that opening, we continued to keep Bean’s promise to remember that digger and his mates. One hundred years on from that terrible battle at Pozières, on 23 July 2016, we told the story of one of those killed there, Captain Ivor Margetts, at the Memorial’s daily Last Post Ceremony.

The hundreds in attendance, including His Excellency Mr Christophe Lecourtier, French Ambassador to Australia, and Her Excellency Mrs Menna Rawlings CMG, British High Commissioner to Australia, listened raptly as Australian Army Warrant Officer Class One Joanne Davey told Margetts’s story. Importantly she shared more with the audience than simply Margetts’s time on the battlefield.

Through the diligent efforts of the Memorial’s Military History and Last Post Ceremony teams Warrant Officer Davey was able to share with them his life before the war - his football prowess, his studies at Hobart University, and his work as a teacher at Hutchins School in his home state of Tasmania– and to bring him to life as someone we can understand and know today, one hundred years on and living in a vastly different world.

I am sure that the unknown digger who inspired Bean’s vision of the Memorial would be comforted by the knowledge that we do remember him and his comrades. I am certain too that he would particularly appreciate that we remember them not as faceless individuals or simply names on a wall, but as men and women with loved ones, friends, family, and a life given for us, our freedoms, and in the hope of a better future.

No doubt Charles Bean would also be proud that his idea, conceived on the battlefield where Margetts and so many others died, has grown into a world renowned institution and a place of national pilgrimage for Australians of all ages and backgrounds.

In celebrating our 75th year the Memorial has undertaken a number of important and powerful initiatives. In September 2016 we officially opened For Country, for Nation, an exhibition dedicated to Indigenous Australians and their service to this country.
“We, as a country, owe our veterans the best possible care in return for their willingness to lay down their lives for our country and our freedoms.”

The Memorial also proudly conferred Fellowship status on three highly deserving individuals at the 2016 Dinner—Rear Admiral Ken Doolan AO RAN (Retd), Mr Lee Kernaghan OAM, and Mr Garth Porter.

The Memorial is grateful for their efforts on our behalf and to Mr Kennett and Mr Beazley for their generous words on what was a very important day in the Memorial’s history.

On Anzac Day 2017 too those in attendance were privileged to hear a speech, of a very different kind, but also of the highest calibre, as Sapper Curtis McGrath OAM, Afghanistan veteran and Paralympian, told of his own experiences as an army combat engineer.

An audience of over 38,000 stood in the dark, doing their best to ignore the cold and light rain, as Sapper McGrath shared with them the experience of losing his legs to an IED blast and the importance of the quality of the care he received to his recovery. In a speech none present will forget, as the rain stopped and the dawn sky lightened, he outlined and praised the care he received at every stage, from the battlefield first aid he gave himself to his “DUSTOFF” to surgery in a field hospital to rehabilitation to the ongoing love and support of his comrades in arms, his friends, and his family.

His courage and his Dawn Service address, like Jeff Kennett’s words on Remembrance Day, provide a timely reminder that we, as a country, owe our veterans the best possible care in return for their willingness to lay down their lives for our country and our freedoms.

Vice Admiral Ray Griggs AO CSC, Vice Chief of the Defence Force, gave the National Ceremony Commemorative Address before veterans and current serving members marched in the traditional Anzac Day March. Thousands of members of the public stood, once more in the rain and the cold, to pay their respects as the men and women who had served marched past.

The dedication of the Flanders Memorial Garden occurred, in contrast to the Dawn Service, on a bright and sunny April morning. Made possible with the generous support of the Government of Flanders, it now stands in the Memorial’s grounds as a reflection of the enduring partnership between Australia and Belgium, and a moving monument to those who lost their lives in the fields of Flanders 100 years ago.

Inscribed with the words of John McRae’s famous poem In Flanders fields it is constructed from Portland stone, the same material used at the Menin Gate in Belgium. The garden contains soils from five key battle sites in Flanders and 20 sites of significant military heritage from each Australian state and territory, and features symbolic flowers such as the Flanders poppy.

Other major commemorative events to occur this year include plaque dedications for the Dominion Yachtsmen Scheme, the Australian Army Training Team – Iraq, Z Special, the 50th anniversary of the battle of Long Tan and Vietnam Veterans Day: Stand-to service, and the 75th anniversary of Bomber Command.

Beyond these major ceremonies, many visitors make the pilgrimage to the Memorial, often travelling to Canberra for the primary purpose of doing so. In the financial year 2016–17 some 1.1 million visitors made that trip and a further 5,614,989 visited our website to plan their trip, learn about our military history, or research the service of family members.

The Memorial’s volunteer education and visitor services teams continued to provide outstanding service to this ever-increasing audience. Our education program continued to engage with our younger generation, with 118,338 (page 61) students attending on-site programs and a further 45,000 (page 62) participating in our outreach programs.

Our front of house staff also supported our other key activities including new and temporary exhibitions. Amongst the latter this financial year has been The deceiving eye which shows how Australian troops were educated in the use of camouflage in the Second World War. The exhibit features one of the most generous Cultural Gifts Programs donations given to the Memorial in a number of years – the eX de Medici work Cure for pain donated by Erika Krebs-Woodward.

In addition to sharing stories of service, it is also the responsibility of the Australian War Memorial to stimulate and challenge visitors, Australian and international, to see the world through the eyes of others. To this effect we proudly opened the Witnesses and survivors permanent exhibition on 30 November 2016 in our Second World War gallery.

Through the work of war artist Alan Moore and using the words, images, and artefacts of some of the survivors who later emigrated to Australia, this important exhibition tells the story of Australia’s connections to the Holocaust. Known as the Shoah to the Jewish community it was the worst genocide of the 20th century in which some six million people, mostly Jews, Roma, gypsies, the disabled and political prisoners, were ruthlessly exterminated by Nazi Germany, and it is time this story was told here where our national soul is revealed.

This year also saw the Memorial’s Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience (SACE) complete the final year of its three-and-a-half-year program. Over that time SACE, serving as the flagship of national commemoration and generously supported by the Federal Government, Commonwealth Bank, and Telstra, visited 23 locations, from capital cities to regional centres, and was experienced by 368,016 visitors. I wish to thank Brian Dawson, the SACE Project Executive Manager, and his team of Memorial staff for their outstanding efforts over this time. The success of this exhibition is largely due to their dedication and hard work.

The Memorial also produced a number of notable works in other mediums from Dr Karl James’s latest book, Double diamonds, a history of Australian commandos in the Pacific, to the documentary Afghanistan: the Australian story on DVD.

Original research of this nature, based on rigorous historical study and conducted by leading experts on Australian military history, informs all of the Memorial’s public engagement programs and is an important part of how we engage with the community in its own right.

Our National Collections branch has had another strong year, in addition to the acquisition of high profile artworks by artists such as Rover Thomas and eX de Medici, the branch has continued our highly successful Victoria Cross Centenary Project. Under this project the Memorial has been able to display 82 of the 100 Victoria Cross medals awarded to Australians in the Hall of Valour. We are grateful to the families, associations, museums, and other groups who have generously loaned medals to the Memorial for display during this period and enabled millions of Australians to see these important national icons.

Behind the scenes our conservators and Military Heraldry and Technology teams have also accomplished some amazing feats this financial year, particularly in completing the four year restoration of the Memorial’s Lockheed Hudson Mark IV bomber.

The Hudson, one of the RAAF’s workhorse aircraft in the Second World War, performing roles as diverse as bomber, transport, and trainer, has been fully restored to wartime configuration and is on display at Canberra Airport until 2018. The support of Canberra Airport and Virgin Australia has been invaluable in making this possible and we are grateful to them for their generosity.

May 2017 saw the Memorial take a major step forward with a completely revamped website. The new site is much more accessible, especially on mobile devices, easier to use, and the systems behind it will support our long-term strategy of digitising our collections, including future projects such as 3D scanning of artefacts that we don’t have the space to display in the galleries. The website is supported by the excellent work of our social media team, who have connected and engaged with millions of people throughout the world through platforms such as Facebook, Flickr, and Twitter, enabling us to share stories of service and have stories shared with us in return.

I would also like to highlight the Memorial’s new brand campaign – “...for we are young and free”. This campaign, produced by our Communications and Marketing team, acknowledges that we are still a young country, and one that is free in large part due to the sacrifice of the men and women honoured here.

The Memorial has carefully sought to manage its operations under sound financial management principles and practices, and to conduct its activities within the available funding. We continue to seek support from government and non-government sources and are grateful to those companies and individuals who have invested in the Memorial’s vision over this financial year.

We are particularly grateful to our generous supporters and partners, including BHP Billiton Sustainable Communities, Mr Kerry Stokes AC, Seven Group Holdings, the Seven Network, Boeing Australia, Qantas, Lockheed Martin, BAE Systems, Thales Australia, Kingold, RSL Victoria, RSL Queensland, RSL New South Wales and Services Clubs, Virgin Australia, Canberra Airport and individual generous support from Steve and Ruth Lambert. I also thank the Commonwealth Government, the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, and the Honourable Dan Tehan MP, Minister for Veterans’ Affairs, for their ongoing support.

My deep appreciation goes to Mr Kerry Stokes AC in his role as Chair of the Australian War Memorial Council. Mr Stokes has been very active in Memorial events and ceremonies, and his leadership and support to management is deeply appreciated. I thank him and all members of Council for their leadership, oversight, strategic direction, and guidance. I am also grateful to the partners and families of our Council who have supported them, including attending many Memorial events themselves, over this past year.

All that has been achieved this year would have been impossible without the hard work, enthusiasm, skills, and knowledge of the Memorial’s volunteers and staff. Their dedication in delivering higher numbers and a higher standard of service to our community this past year has been outstanding, and I thank them for their professionalism and personal engagement with the Memorial’s mission.

The leadership and support of my Assistant Directors – Leanne Patterson in Corporate Services, Tim Sullivan heading the National Collection branch, and Anne Bennie overseeing Public Programs – has been the final ingredient in making 2016-17 such a success. Their hard work and expertise has delivered extraordinary results this year and prepared us well for financial year 2017-18.

We have well-developed plans for the final period of the centenary of Anzac and for the Memorial’s long-term future, and hope to develop both throughout the next financial year.

Brendan Nelson
Director
Corporate Summary

PURPOSE
The purpose of the Australian War Memorial is to commemorate the sacrifice of those Australians who have died in war or on operational service.

MISSION
The mission of the Australian War Memorial is to assist Australians to remember, interpret, and understand the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on Australian society.

VISION
Our vision is for the Memorial to:
• play the leading role in the nation’s commemoration of the Australian experience of war
• engage with people and communities to achieve our purpose
• collaborate with a wide range of stakeholders and partners to create mutual long-term value
• be a workplace that inspires integrity and excellence.

VALUES
The Memorial is committed to the Australian Public Service (APS) values:

Impartial
The APS is apolitical and provides the government with advice that is frank, honest, timely, and based on the best available evidence.

Committed to service
The APS is professional, objective, innovative, and efficient, and works collaboratively to achieve the best results for the Australian community and the government.

Accountable
The APS is open and accountable to the Australian community under the law and within the framework of ministerial responsibility.

Respectful
The APS respects all people, including their rights and their heritage.

Ethical
The APS demonstrates leadership, is trustworthy, and acts with integrity in all that it does.
PLANNING AND REPORTING FRAMEWORK

The Memorial is a statutory authority within the Department of Veterans’ Affairs portfolio, and is responsible for functions in accordance with the requirements of the Australian War Memorial Act 1980, the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013, and other applicable acts. The Memorial’s strategic direction and policies are set by its Council.

Management and implementation of strategies and policies are the responsibility of the Director, who is a statutory appointee under the Australian War Memorial Act 1980.

The strategic direction for the Memorial over 2016–17 is articulated in the Memorial’s Corporate Plan. The plan includes, among other things, the outcomes to be achieved by the Memorial, as well as its vision, corporate priorities, and values. The Corporate Plan, approved and regularly reviewed by Council, provides the framework for developing the annual Business Plan and its related budget. All Memorial activities are linked directly to the corporate priorities and associated performance targets. Performance information related to these outputs is contained in Part 4 of this report, commencing on page 21.

The Memorial has a number of other plans that focus on particular activities including collection development; collection documentation; collection conservation; gallery and site development; audit; business risk; business continuity; budget; fraud control; information technology; workplace diversity; and security of physical assets, people, and information.

Further details of applicable legislation, functions, and powers can be found in Part 5, at page 95.

LOCATION

The Memorial’s main site is located at the northern end of Anzac Parade, in Campbell in the Australian Capital Territory, with storage and collection facilities approximately nine kilometres away in the northern Canberra suburb of Mitchell.

Pictured here with his Australian War Memorial Long Service Medallion, Mr Peter Burness joined the Memorial as a curator in 1973, and until his retirement in December 2016 was its longest-serving employee. In recognition of his outstanding service, he was appointed a Fellow of the Australian War Memorial in 2015. He was appointed a Member of the Order of Australia in 2017, and continues to work with the Australian War Memorial in a volunteer role.
ORGANISATION CHART AND SENIOR STAFF

The day-to-day corporate operations are conducted in accordance with the policies and strategic direction set by the Council of the Memorial and its management team. The management structure of the Memorial comprises three branches based on functional responsibilities with outputs achieved by cross-branch activities.

Project teams for particular tasks are established as required. These draw on staff from sections across the Memorial and are managed and coordinated by the Memorial’s senior executive committee, the Corporate Management Group (CMG), which comprises the Director and the three Assistant Directors. Meeting weekly, CMG is responsible for the overall leadership, management, and implementation of strategies and policies, and for the regular review of performance. For all financial matters, the Chief Finance Officer attends CMG and also has direct access to the Director as necessary.

BRANCH DESCRIPTIONS

National Collection
The National Collection branch develops, manages, conserves, researches, and interprets the National Collection and makes it accessible through an extensive range of programs. The Memorial’s collection is an invaluable resource comprising the historical and cultural artefacts of Australia’s experience of war and our involvement in peacekeeping, humanitarian, and other operational service. It underpins the Memorial’s capability to tell the stories of Australian service in exhibitions and other public programs, to educate and inform its visitors, and to meet the information needs of public enquirers, researchers, and academic and official organisations.

Each section of the branch manages a particular collection type and provides management information services to provide the essential historical and cultural contact of the collection. The National Collection branch is comprised of Art; Military Heraldry and Technology; Photographs, Film and Sound; the Research Centre; and Collection Services. Curators in these areas are responsible for researching and developing the collection; ensuring that it is accessible, well documented, and appropriately stored and conserved; and that its significance is understood. National Collection’s staff provide intellectual input to the curatorial development and interpretation of exhibitions and public programs, deal with public and official enquiries, engage in archival research and access, and make collection material available online. Collection Services staff provide expert services in conservation, storage, movement, and physical handling of the collection, as well as management of the collection management system. The branch also manages the Roll of Honour and Commemorative Roll, national and international loans of Memorial material, and donations of historically significant material.

The Branch maintains liaison with the Australian Defence Force and its history and heritage units through the Collections Coordination Group (CCG), which enables the Memorial to maintain its traditions of collection in the field during current operations.

Public Programs
The function of the Public Programs branch is to engage all Australians and international visitors to the Memorial in commemoration through ceremonies, exhibitions, education, interpretation, digital engagement, and marketing services.

The branch develops and undertakes activities to enhance commemoration at the Memorial and throughout the Australian community. It does this by conducting major and minor ceremonies to mark anniversaries relating to Australia’s experience of war, in particular Anzac Day and Remembrance Day, and by producing and conducting the daily Last Post Ceremony to remember those individuals who lost their lives in conflict. Through the exhibitions program the branch contributes to the remembrance and understanding of the Australian experience of war by developing and maintaining world-class museum exhibitions incorporating audio-visual and interactive displays, relics, photographs, and works of art. The Memorial’s goals are further supported through a program of changing temporary displays and exhibitions in the Special Exhibitions Gallery. The Memorial’s Touring Exhibition program has been able to continue due to much-appreciated support from sponsors.

The Public Programs branch conducts research to identify the needs and expectations of visitors and major interest groups, and evaluates the extent to which those needs are being met. It conducts a program of public events and a range of visitor services, including those provided by the Memorial’s volunteers and historians. The branch develops and implements education programs that are linked with national education curriculum, both for delivery on site and as part of its outreach strategy.

A focused digital experience strategy provides a deeper and more connected Memorial experience through further development of the website and use of social media channels.

The branch is also responsible for seeking, managing, and servicing fundraising and sponsorship opportunities; developing and coordinating marketing initiatives across the Memorial; providing public relations direction and support; supplying authoritative historical research and interpretation; and researching and writing the official history of Australia’s involvement in peacekeeping, humanitarian, and post–Cold War operations.

The Public Programs branch has had the responsibility for coordinating many Memorial activities relating to the centenary of Anzac.

Corporate Services
The Corporate Services Branch is responsible for the delivery of a range of internal and external governance, compliance, and resource management functions. Implementation of government reforms relevant to the Memorial is also coordinated by the branch.

The branch facilitates the management of the Memorial’s resources, including staff, finances, facilities, information technology, and office services. It provides grounds and property management, and security and records management services. It is responsible for corporate planning and issues relating to administrative law, public liability, fraud control, risk management, and ethics. Corporate Services also manages procurement and contract advisory functions, financial policy, internal audit, and asset management. The branch is also responsible for management of the Memorial Shop and e-Business.

Executive functions and ministerial and parliamentary liaison are coordinated in this branch.
The Memorial hosted international guests including Ms Marillyn A Hewson, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, Lockheed Martin Corporation; Mr Chris Seed, New Zealand High Commissioner to Australia; Mrs Patricia Adam, Chair of the Committee of Defence and Armed Forces of the French House of Representatives accompanied by His Excellency Mr Christophe Lecourtier, Ambassador of France to Australia; King Abdullah II ibn Al Hussein and Queen Rania Al Abdullah of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan; Mr Ermias-Selassie, President of the Crown Council of Ethiopia; Mr Jean-Marc Ayrault, Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Development of the French Republic.
SPOTLIGHT

Conservation of the Hudson Bomber A16-105

Growing up as a kid in Canberra and going to the Memorial on a school trip for the first time left many lasting impressions printed in my mind. One that stood out the most was “Somebody actually flew that aircraft in the war”.

While working on the Hudson project, fitting parts that I manufactured into the cockpit, I had the opportunity to sit in the cockpit seat of the Hudson Bomber to adjust an instrument into the correct position. Sitting there in the cockpit seat thoughts I had as a kid 20 years ago came back to my mind: “Someone actually sat in this seat and flew this airplane during the war”. But this time I had these thoughts as someone who had the opportunity to work on the Hudson as a qualified tradesperson. A lot can happen in 20 years, but the feeling felt a day old.

“It is inside where the countless hours of work have gone, returning this airplane to what it was like in 1943.”

As the project went on we found original design blueprints, allowing the in-house manufacture of a lot more of the missing items, and a higher level of detail and completion than we had initially hoped for. Working through the various stages of the interior was challenging, but enjoyable. Of all the aircraft projects I have been a part of during 15 years at the Memorial, A16-105 is probably the one which the most work has gone into, and which I am most proud of. From the outside, apart from the new paint and Boulton Paul turret, it appears that not a great deal has changed. It is inside where the countless hours of work have gone, returning this airplane to what it was like in 1943. To be a part of a team working on such a great project was a highly rewarding experience, and one which is now proving to be a great ambassador for the Memorial in the lobby of the Canberra Airport.

“I began working on the A16-105 in mid-2009. The first step in what was to be the next six years of my working life at the Memorial began with the restoration of the Boulton Paul turret, piecing together the structure from components spread across several pallets and two large flatbed trolleys. This was followed by a two-week research trip to New Zealand with a curator, gathering information and components to complete the internal fitout of the Hudson. Several institutions and private owners allowed us full access to their aircraft and spares holdings, making it a successful and informative visit. We returned full of enthusiasm and began the challenging task of the full restoration, moving the aircraft from the store into the workshop, and taking on Kim “Woody” Wood for his expertise in aero structures.

“It was a great honour to utilise the skills I had developed as a tradesperson to contribute to getting this aircraft to the spectacular standard it is in today. I’m sure the guys that flew the aircraft would be very happy with the job we have done.”

Jamie Croker
Senior Large Technology Object Conservator and Aircraft Maintenance Engineer
Collection Conservation Team
Half a decade ago I was working as the production manager in a large hanger in Wangaratta, Victoria, restoring and completely rebuilding warbirds for wealthy customers all over the world. It was a demanding role, balancing the personal requests of customers and the aviation regulatory authorities in order to once again fly aircraft such as Hawker Sea Furys, P40 Kittyhawks, P39 Aerocobras and many more.

Eventually the opportunity presented itself to seek a position at the Australian War Memorial and ply my trade as a licenced aircraft maintenance engineer and specialist in aero structures, restoring Australian aircraft for display into the future. My main project was the Memorial’s Hudson Bomber now on display at the Canberra Airport.

“I am very happy that the Hudson is now on display in a space that provides access to many people and tells a little piece of the story that is part of our history as a nation.”

I am very happy that the Hudson is now on display in a space that provides access to many people and tells a little piece of the story that is part of our history as a nation.

The greatest sense of pride for me is knowing that there are people in our community who once served this country using this equipment that can catch a moment of their youth and reflect.

Rev Kim “Woody” Wood
Large Technology Object Conservator
Collection Conservation Team

Working on the Hudson was a privilege for me. Up until then I had not worked on aircraft before. This had me carrying out work that was outside my comfort zone: I had not had to fabricate parts in aluminium in such detail as was required by the supplied blueprints. It also gave me the opportunity to tune in to some upholstery skills that I had not used in quite some time, and to carry out paintwork on such a large scale was a challenge that I thoroughly enjoyed.

The interest in the aircraft shown by people is awesome. Talking to family and friends about the project has brought out a lot of interest and a number of stories about Hudsons and aircraft in general. It has got regular people talking and reflecting, and through this people have been motivated to re-visit the Memorial to look over the collection. It has been good to hear that people had been out to the airport to look at our Hudson. Most were impressed by the team's workmanship and the logistics of how it ended up in there.

I am hopeful that we will be able to recreate this kind of public feeling in the future on other projects.

Mark Aitken
Workshop Manager Collection Services

The Memorial’s Lockheed Hudson Mark IV Bomber was unveiled at Canberra Airport in December.

The aircraft, which had been in the workshop for four years as Memorial conservators worked to restore its December 1942 wartime configuration, was delivered in sections and put together by the Memorial’s Large Technology team.
On 11 November 2016 staff and volunteers celebrated the 75th anniversary of the Australian War Memorial. A stonemason involved in the construction of the Memorial, Mr McJannet, provided recollections of his experiences, and Dr Brendan Nelson farewelled outgoing Memorial Chairman Rear Admiral Ken Doolan.
OUTCOME AND OUTPUTS STRUCTURE

All Australian government departments and agencies are required to measure their performance in terms of Outcomes. These are the results, impacts, or consequences of their actions on the Australian community. The performance of the Australian War Memorial is expressed in terms of a single Outcome:

Outcome 1

Australians remembering, interpreting and understanding the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact through maintaining and developing the National Memorial, its collection and exhibition of historical material, commemorative ceremonies and research.

The Memorial’s Outcome will be achieved through the maintenance and development of the national memorial and a national collection of historical material, through commemorative ceremonies, exhibitions, research, interpretation, and dissemination.

The Memorial delivers 13 programs, five of which are internally generated, to achieve the Outcome.
OVERALL PERFORMANCE AGAINST THE OUTCOME

This financial year the Memorial continued to operate in the 2014–2018 First World War centenary period. In July and August of 2016 the Memorial commemorated the centenary of Australian service on the Western Front at the battles of Fromelles, Pozieres, Romani, and Mouquet Farm. August 2016 included the 50th anniversary of the battle of Long Tan. These events were primarily commemorated on-site through a number of commemorative events, a full account of which are on page 30, under “Other Commemorative Activities”.

The Memorial grounds have been enhanced with the unveiling of the new Flanders Memorial Garden which was dedicated on April 2017.

International relations were reinforced with the loan of the Menin Gate lions to their original hometown of Ieper (Ypres) in Belgium.

The Memorial farewelled the Mephisto A7V tank in June 2017. This rare German tank, on display in Anzac Hall, was on loan from the Queensland Museum from July 2015 as part of the centenary of the First World War program.

Attendance by the general public was maintained, with 884,177 general visitors entering through the front gates. While numbers attending regular ceremonies and programs fluctuated in comparison to last year, already high satisfaction ratings for many galleries and activities increased by 2–6 per cent. The average time spent at the Memorial by general visitors has been increasing steadily during this period from 2 hours 9 minutes in 2014–15, to 2 hours 20 minutes in 2015–16, to 2 hours 27 minutes this year. The Memorial diversified its offerings with an increase in smaller, tailored events and programs. Programs and tours tailored to meet the needs of specific audience groups have been gaining traction.

Preparations are underway and expectations are high for the commemoration of Remembrance Day 2018, the 100-year anniversary of the end of the First World War. Memorial preparations for the post-centenary period has commenced with the release of a new branding campaign and new website. New audience research was concluded to inform these projects and assist in tailoring them to the needs of the Memorial’s audience.

COMMENORATION PERFORMANCE INDICATOR

Whether people were actively involved in commemoration by attending the national Anzac Day and Remembrance Day ceremonies and other commemorative ceremonies held at the Memorial.

The Memorial’s Anzac Day 2017 Dawn Service and National Ceremony was attended by a combined total of 45,000 members of the public. An estimated 38,000 attended the Dawn Service and 7,000 attended the National Ceremony. Numbers for the National Ceremony were down from 2016 figures due to inclement weather. Visitors to the Memorial on Anzac Day were polled as part of on-site survey conducted throughout April as part of an audience segmentation profile project. The results showed that the audience profile for April 2017 was different from the typical annual profile, with more local visitors and including a broader, more representative ratio of demographic groups such as younger families and retirees.

The Remembrance Day 2016 ceremony was attended by 3,700 members of the public. The Last Post Ceremony has been becoming increasingly responsive to the needs of veterans, families and other stakeholders. Last Post ceremonies were attended by 143,016 people, down 7 per cent on figures from the previous financial year.

Wreathlaying ceremonies had a 15 per cent increase in attendance, with a total of 11,032 people – including 7,038 students attending school wreathlaying ceremonies, a 35 per cent increase; 1,087 more than last year.

ACCESSIBILITY PERFORMANCE INDICATOR

Whether a significant number of Australians visited or had access to the Australian War Memorial and its services, including exhibitions, touring exhibitions, collections, website, Research Centre, and research and interpretive programs.

The Memorial’s audience profile has continued to evolve. While the percentage of first time visitors to the Memorial was similar – 34 per cent in 2016–17 and 35 per cent in 2015–16 – there was an 8 per cent increase in the recent under-two-year repeat visitor groups (4 per cent for both “less than 12 months” and “1–2 years”) and a 7 per cent decrease in the longer-term repeat visitor groups of “5–10 years” and “10 years and over” (also 4 per cent each).

The Memorial’s domestic profile was comparable to that of 2015–16 with slight increases in Victorian and Queensland visitors and increases in retirees over 65 years.

Of those interstate visitors surveyed, the following were the main motivations expressed for visiting the Memorial:

• holiday or leisure (34 per cent)
• specifically to visit the Memorial (23 per cent)
• as part of a visit to friends and relatives (21 per cent).

General public front gate attendance showed a 5 per cent increase this year, program and event attendances fluctuated while satisfaction and engagement levels were equal to or higher than the 2015–16 reporting year.

The Memorial’s touring exhibition attendances have been lower as the program restarted in December 2016 with new funding for a number of exhibitions including For Country, for Nation.

Overall, a combined estimated total of just under 1.105 million people visited the Memorial’s Campbell site or storage facility at Mitchell. A further 14,454 visitors attended the Memorial’s touring exhibitions at other venues.

KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING PERFORMANCE INDICATOR

Visitors and clients had an increased level of knowledge and understanding of the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on our society as a result of their contact with the Memorial.

The Memorial continues to track visitor perceptions of the importance of the Australian experience of war in creating and shaping the Australian identity during the centenary period. This year there was a marginal decrease in visitors believing that this was “very important” or “extremely important”, from 83 to 81 per cent.

Learning measures are included in all of the Memorial’s dedicated exhibition exit surveys. The Reality in flames modern Australian art and the Second World War exhibition pushed the comfort zone of the Memorial’s typical visitors with the inclusion of modern and abstract art. It successfully used modern art to provide a different viewpoint on the Second World War. Around half of the visitors who visited the exhibition were surprised to learn that the Memorial holds these artworks in its collection. Of those interviewed upon exiting the exhibition, 97 per cent found the information interesting overall. Visitors were asked what they thought were the most striking impacts of the Second World War on Australian society. The largest categories of many and varied answers were:

- 15 per cent: loss of life and death
- 9 per cent: the effect it had on Australians at home
- 8 per cent: changing gender roles and role of women in particular
- 4 per cent each for: attack on home soil; violence intensity and destruction of it all; and the impact on Australia’s relationship with America and the United Kingdom.

“Touched home physically, more literature and art and recordings on the home front. Much more dominant. Not a choice, this was a worthy war.”

“From the artwork I would conclude it [the Second World War] reinforced Australian identity.”

“Psychological impact of servicemen and women and their families. Constant fear of threat and closer to home.”
The Anzac Day Dawn service included pre-service image projections, and a moving commemorative address by Sapper Curtis McGrath. A didgeridoo performance by Leading Aircraftman Brodie McIntyre heralded the start of the ceremony. Staff members were present to hand dignitaries sprigs of rosemary to be laid at the Tomb of the Unknown Australian Soldier.
Undeterred by rain, attendance at the Anzac Day veterans’ march was strong. The march was the first time in the national march’s history that it was led by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander veterans.

PROGRAM COMPONENT 1.1

COMMEMORATIVE CEREMONIES

assist Australians remember the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on society.

Major national ceremonies, particularly Anzac Day and Remembrance Day, and other commemorative ceremonies are conducted in an engaging, dignified, and appropriate manner, with assistance provided to organisations conducting commemorative ceremonies.

OVERVIEW

Commemoration to mark special dates and events takes many forms. The Memorial delivers a comprehensive program that includes the major national days of commemoration, such as Anzac Day and Remembrance Day, other significant dates and events in Australian military history, and smaller, more intimate ceremonies such as the Last Post.

The Last Post Ceremony was first introduced to commemorate significant military anniversaries and events. Since its inception in 2013, the ceremony has evolved into one of the Memorial’s most poignant and venerated traditions. Now a daily event, the Last Post Ceremony tells the personal story of one of the more than 102,000 Australian men and women who died in service of their country and whose names appear on the Roll of Honour.

The commemorative program continues to receiving an increase in enquiries. These requests are often accompanied by further specific and meaningful elements, in particular for the Last Post ceremony. Since the inception of the Last Post Ceremony in 2013, over 900 requests have been received to commemorate individuals whose names appear on the Roll of Honour.

In 2016, the Remembrance Day National Ceremony attracted a comparable audience to that of the previous year. The Commemorative Address was delivered by the Honourable Jeff Kennett AC and explored the issues of mental illness, including post-traumatic stress in the Defence environment and the resources required to support it. Almost 1,000 students and teachers attended the National Ceremony, and 102 students from schools across Australia laid poppies in honour of the more than 102,000 Australian servicemen and women who lost their lives in wartime.

On Tuesday 25 April 2017, the 102nd anniversary of the ANZAC landings was commemorated with the Dawn Service, National Ceremony, and a special Last Post Ceremony. Poor weather threatened the Dawn Service at which Sapper Curtis McGrath OAM delivered a moving commemorative address regarding his experience in Afghanistan and the commitment of service personnel to the concept of a DUSTOFF: Dedicated Unhesitating Service to Our Fighting Forces. The heavens opened up for the National Ceremony affecting audience attendance and march participation. The Commemorative Address delivered by Vice Admiral Ray Griggs AO CSC RAN highlighted many of the events of the Second World War and their impact on Australia and Australians. Students and teachers from Australia and from New Zealand attended the ceremony.

PERFORMANCE TARGET

Three major ceremonies: the Anzac Day Dawn Service; the Anzac Day National Ceremony; and the Remembrance Day Ceremony.

RESULT Met

Attendance at and participation in a commemorative ceremony is an explicit act of remembrance.

Just over 210,460 people attended commemorative ceremonies during 2016–17.

Attendance at the three major commemorative ceremonies held during 2016–17:

- Anzac Day Dawn Service: approximately 38,000 visitors (55,000 last year)
- Anzac Day National Ceremony: 7,000 visitors (11,500 last year)
- Remembrance Day Ceremony: 3,700 visitors (3,900 last year).

“Students were reminded in a very poignant way, about the sacrifices made by Australians in war and the impact of war”

Endeavour College, Mawson Lakes, SA July 2016

“...The participation in the ceremony reinforced the solemn and respectful way we should treat the memory of the soldiers who sacrificed so much. To be able to participate in this ceremony in such a special monument was truly an honour that enhances and sparks student learning.”

Assisi Catholic College, QLD October 2016

Students from Lilydale West Primary School in the Commemorative Area with the Honourable Tony Smith and Dr Brendan Nelson.
“Very professionally organised by staff. Was wonderful to have the presence of a veteran. We noticed a difference in the students’ level of awareness and respect before and after the ceremony.”

St. Clement of Rome Catholic Primary School, VIC, March 2017

“A formal, sober experience for our students. The ceremony allowed students to gain further insight into our customs, traditions and history.”

Bletchington Public School, NSW, March 2017

“It improves their awareness and understanding of the importance of remembering the sacrifice that men and women gave throughout all conflicts. It reinforces the knowledge gained from experiencing the museum. The students connect more when things are ‘real’. Having Ray speak with us and share his experiences help the girls connect their knowledge and empathy, developing a deeper respect for all people.”

PERFORMANCE TARGET

The Last Post Ceremony on a daily basis.

RESULT Met

The Last Post Ceremony was delivered in all weather conditions on each of the 364 days the Memorial opened. Incorporated into the scheduling were more than 160 family requests and ten association requests. Over 60 ceremonies commemorated significant military anniversaries or annual dates of remembrance.

There have been many memorable occasions at the Last Post Ceremony over the past 12 months. Examples include the 50th anniversary of Vietnam Veterans Day the visit from His Excellency János Áder, President of the Republic of Hungary and the First Lady, which coincided with the ceremony to honour a casualty in Afghanistan, Private Luke Gavin. The ceremony was an extremely moving experience for the visiting dignitaries, family members, and others present.

The Australian Defence Force continues to support the ceremony through the voluntary commitment of Defence personnel to read the stories each evening. Of particular note is the regular involvement of Australia’s Federation Guard which brings a special ceremonial element to the ceremony twice a month and on significant anniversaries.

In the past 12 months, the Memorial has begun live-streaming Last Post ceremonies for online viewers through YouTube and Facebook, providing increased accessibility and broadening audience reach.

The Last Post Ceremony is a culmination of effort from various teams across the Australian War Memorial. Through their hard work and dedication the ceremony is delivered daily in a professional and dignified manner that ensures continual meaningful engagement with visitors and the Memorial’s digital audience.

OTHER COMMEMORATIVE ACTIVITIES

50th anniversary of Vietnam commemorations

August 2016 marked the 50th anniversary of the battle of Long Tan and Vietnam Veterans’ Day. The Memorial held a special commemorative program over the period 16–18 August to honour and acknowledge those who served in Vietnam.

On the evenings of 16, 17, and 18 August 2016, photographic images from the Vietnam War were projected onto the façade of the Memorial. Also projected were the names of the key theatres of the war, and the names of the 521 personnel listed on the Vietnam Roll of Honour.

On Wednesday 17 August, a special performance of I was only 19 was conducted by Mr John Schumann and the late Mr Hugh McDonald in the Hall of Memory for a group of veterans nominated by Vietnam veteran associations and federations from around Australia. This unique performance gave the veterans the opportunity to gather beside the Tomb of the Unknown Australian Soldier, in memory of men and women who served this nation in the Vietnam War, and to remember those that did not come home. This special performance was filmed and streamed live for public viewing on screens in the forecourt of the Memorial. Mr Schumann and Mr McDonald performed the song again at the day’s Last Post Ceremony to all veterans, their families, general visitors, and school students to commemorate this significant anniversary.

At 5.30 am on the morning of 18 August 2016, the Memorial’s Commemorative Area opened to the public where cadets from the Australian Defence Force Academy and the Royal Military College Duntroon recited the 521 names on the Vietnam Roll of Honour. During this time, visitors were able to enter the Commemorative Area and place poppies to remember the fallen.

Following this, a stand to service was held at 7 am on the Memorial’s Parade Ground. Approximately 600 veterans, families, visitors, and invited dignitaries gathered in the stillness of the morning to commemorate those who served in Vietnam. The ceremony included an address by the Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia, His Excellency General the Honourable Sir Peter Cosgrove AK MC (Retd), who laid a wreath at the Stone of Remembrance with Her Excellency Lady Cosgrove. Wreaths were also laid by representatives of the veterans of the battle of Long Tan and the families of those that were killed in this action. Wreaths were also laid by the Presidents of the Vietnam Veterans Association of Australia, Vietnam Veterans Federation of Australia, and the New Zealand Vietnam Veterans Association. The Last Post Ceremony story on this day was of Private Kenneth Gant, a Long Tan casualty, and included a recording of him singing Oh, Danny Boy, a gift for his mother before he departed for Vietnam almost 50 years earlier.
Commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the battle of Long Tan and Vietnam Veterans Day included a musical tribute to veterans in the Hall of Memory, a Stand-to service, and flyovers, featuring aircraft from the era.
During a special dedication ceremony soil from battlefields and war cemeteries across Flanders was placed in the Flanders Memorial Garden, mixed with that collected by the Returned and Services League from significant military heritage sites in each Australian state. Five hand-crafted boxes containing the soil were transported by members of Australia’s Federation Guard.
For Country, for Nation exhibition launch

On 22 September 2016, the launch of the exhibition For Country, for Nation was held. Displayed for 12 months, this unique exhibition presents the story of Australia’s experience of war from the perspectives of Aboriginal, Torres Strait and Pacific Islander peoples.

Approximately 200 people attended the launch, including a number of dignitaries, members of the Memorial Elders and Knowledge Holders Guidance Group, and members of Indigenous communities. The launch commenced with a traditional smoking ceremony to welcome guests prior to a Welcome to Country by Mrs Roslyn Brown, Chairperson of the United Ngunnawal Elders Council. The Chief of Navy supported the launch with the participation of the Royal Australian Navy Indigenous Group, Bungaree. This group, comprised of officers and sailors of the Royal Australian Navy, represents clans and nations from as far afield as the Torres Strait and the Western Plains of New South Wales. The members assisted in leading guests to the launch from the Last Post Ceremony and performed as part of the official proceedings wearing a mix of traditional dress and naval uniform, representing their traditional and military heritages.

Senator the Honourable Arthur Sinodinos AO representing the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, the Honourable Bill Shorten MP, provided remarks prior to the exhibition being officially launched by Squadron Leader Gary Oakley, National President of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Veterans and Services Association, and member of the Gundungurra tribe from the Blue Mountains region of New South Wales. The formalities concluded with the performance of On Every Anzac Day by Mr John Schumann and Mr Rohan Powell. Mr Schumann was commissioned in 2015, by the then Chief of Army, Lieutenant General David Morrison AO, to write this song to commemorate Australia’s Indigenous soldiers.

Flanders Memorial Garden dedication ceremony

On 4 April 2017, a ceremony was held to officially dedicate the Flanders Memorial Garden. Developed with the support of the Government of Flanders, the garden reflects the enduring relationship between Australia and Belgium, and is a significant addition to the Memorial’s commemorations of the centenary of the First World War.

The evening before the dedication ceremony, members of Australia’s Federation Guard transported five hand-crafted boxes containing soil from battlefields and war cemeteries across Flanders, from the Memorial forecourt into the Commemorative Area. The boxes were brought past the names listed on the First World War Roll of Honour and placed in the Hall of Memory. Resting adjacent to the Tomb of the Unknown Australian Soldier, they remained in symbolic vigil overnight.

The following morning the boxes were collected by Australia’s Federation Guard and taken to the official dedication ceremony, where the soil was placed in the garden by the Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia, His Excellency General the Honourable Sir Peter Cosgrove AK MC (Retd), the Secretary General of the Flanders Department of Foreign Affairs, Mr Koen Verlaeckt, the Chief of Army, Lieutenant General Angus Campbell DSC AM, the Regimental Sergeant Major of the Army, Warrant Officer Don Spinks OAM, and junior Legatees Thomas and Katherine Grice.

Soil collected from key First World War heritage sites in each state and territory of Australia was placed in the garden by branch representatives of the Returned and Services League of Australia.

The dedication included a traditional smoking ceremony, conducted by Ngunnawal Elder Ms Tina Brown to cleanse the foreign soil, enabling the spirits within to rest easy on Ngunnawal country within the grounds of the Memorial. Council member Wing Commander Sharon Bown (Retd) recited the commemorative poem by John McCrae In Flanders fields, the words of which are inscribed on the Flanders Memorial Garden. Adjacent to the garden is an interpretive panel which features a quote from British Field Marshal Lord Plumer who dedicated the Ieper (Menin Gate) Memorial, in 1927:

“It can be said of each one in whose honour we are assembled here today: He is not missing; he is here.”

VIP visits

The Memorial conducted over 100 VIP visits in 2016–17 including visits by Their Majesties King Abdullah II bin Al-Hussein and Queen Rania Al Abdullah of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, and Their Majesties King Willem-Alexander and Queen Máxima of the Netherlands.

A complete list of VIP visits and ceremonies is provided at Appendix 3.
PLAQUE DEDICATION PROGRAM

To date, 220 commemorative plaques have been installed in the Memorial’s grounds. All commemorative plaque records are released to the Memorial’s website, with each record including a site map featuring a photograph and description of the plaque, along with its general location within the grounds.

The program was closed in June 2015 with all current applications from that time progressed. With so many plaques now installed, only new requests from more recent conflicts are considered.

Four commemorative plaques were installed during the year:

Z-Special

On 1 August 2016, a plaque dedication ceremony was held commemorating the service and sacrifice of members of Z Special Unit, Special Operations Australia. The Z Special Unit was a secret element of the Australian military forces, and an administrative and holding unit for Australian soldiers serving with Special Operations Australia during the Second World War.

The plaque dedication attracted an audience of 1,100 including Z Special veterans, widows, siblings and other family members who had travelled from around Australia and New Zealand to attend this significant ceremony. During the proceedings, Air Chief Marshal Mark Binskin AC, Chief of the Defence Force, read a message on behalf of the Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia, His Excellency, General the Honorable Sir Peter Cosgrove AK MC (Retd) paying special tribute to the dedication and sacrifice of the men of Z Special Unit. The commemorative plaque was unveiled by Z Special veterans Mr Jack Tredea MM and Mr Jim Ellwood.

Dominion Yachtsman Scheme

On 4 May 2017, a plaque dedication ceremony was held commemorating the service and sacrifice of members of the Dominion Yachtsman Scheme. Recruited to the Royal Australian Navy Volunteer Reserve through yacht clubs, roughly 500 Australian volunteers served over a period of 60 years in the Atlantic and Arctic seas on convoy duty, and in the Mediterranean and Persian Gulf on special operations and bomb disposal.

Seventy family members of those who served in the Dominion Yachtsmen Scheme travelled from around Australia to attend this plaque dedication ceremony.

Special Operations Command

On 29 May 2017, a plaque dedication ceremony was held commemorating the service and sacrifice of members of the Special Operations Command units. The plaque commemorates the service of the Special Operations units which formed the foundation of Australia’s National Mission forces, including: 1 Commando Regiment; SAS Regiment; 2 Commando Regiment; Special Operations Engineer Regiment; Special Operations Logistics Squadron; Special Forces Training Centre; Parachute Training School; and 6th Aviation Regiment.

Fifty serving members of Special Operations Command attended this important ceremony. During the proceedings, Major General Jeffrey Sengelman DSC AM CSC, Special Operations Commander Australia, delivered the Commemorative Address and unveiled the commemorative plaque in acknowledgement of the service and sacrifice of all those who are a part of Special Operations Command.

Australian Army Training Team Iraq

On 1 June 2017, a plaque dedication ceremony was held commemorating the service and sacrifice of members of the Australian Army Training Team Iraq (AATTI). Between 2004 and 2008, 485 members of the Australian Army and Royal Australian Air Force deployed and contributed to the training of over 33,000 Iraqi Army soldiers.

Thirty members of the AATTI Association attended this plaque dedication ceremony. Notable members of the association in attendance included Major General Mark Kelly AO DSC (Retd), Commissioner – Department of Veteran Affairs and Mr Jeremy Hanson CSC MLA, ACT Shadow Minister for Veterans Affairs. The commemorative plaque was unveiled by Colonel Iain Cruickshank CSC DSM, President of the AATTI Association, and Colonel Kerry Gallagher AM, National President of the Australian Army Training Team Vietnam Association. Colonel Cruickshank also delivered the Commemorative Address during the proceedings.
Ceremonies conducted in the Memorial grounds included the Nurses and Midwives Wreathlaying Ceremony, and a Commemorative Plaque Dedication Ceremony in recognition of the service and sacrifice of members of the Z Special Unit.
Ceremonies were conducted to dedicate plaques to the Australian Army Training Team Iraq Association, and the Dominion Yachtsmen Scheme. The Memorial held a wreathlaying ceremony in recognition of the work of Legacy during the National Launch of Legacy Week.
High-quality building, garden, and grounds presentation remains a top priority for the Memorial. The ongoing maintenance program ensures that the grounds and buildings are presented to the highest possible standard. Replacement of trees and other plantings was undertaken as required, as was maintenance of all sculptures and memorials, buildings, and the Pool of Reflection.

A major refurbishment of the Commemorative Area has been completed. The original, badly weathered sandstone stringcourse and carved figures have been replaced to preserve the appearance and heritage value of the site. The project was generously supported by the Department of Environment through a $1 million grant from the Protecting National Historic Sites program. The works also included replacement and waterproofing of the Commemorative Area garden beds and re-grouting of the Christmas Bush granite flooring and the Pool of Reflection.

As part of the Commemorative Area reconstruction project, new drainage and planter boxes have been installed. This will reduce the risk of damage to the building due to failing waterproofing and inadequate drainage.

Detailed garden maintenance of the Commemorative Area and the Memorial courtyard on a weekly basis continues to keep these high-profile formal gardens at their best. The maintenance regime for the Pool of Reflection in the Commemorative Area and for the National Service Memorial Fountain in the courtyard continues at a high standard and has reduced conservation requirements.

The implementation of the Campbell Site Development Plan continued this year, along with various minor new site developments for visitor amenities. A full width access platform was installed in the Commemorative Area entrance, using Christmas Bush granite sourced from the original quarry to ensure the works were sympathetic to the heritage aesthetic of the area. The work was designed in line with heritage and building code requirements.

Design and documentation has commenced on the southern commemorative area stairs to upgrade the handrails, improve lighting for evening and night events, and meet safety and legislated requirements.

Sixteen additional light poles have been installed across the Campbell Site, providing increased security and safety for the public, as well as many being fitted with power and data outlets to improve facilities for events.

Memorial staff continue to liaise with heritage specialists as required to seek advice for building works in heritage-sensitive areas.

An ongoing maintenance and conservation regime is in place to protect and repair the stonework in the Memorial building. Over the course of this year, this work included the removal of algal deposits from the sandstone; conservation and repair of chipped and damaged stone behind the Merchant Navy Sculpture; ceiling repairs above Airman and Sailor sculptures; rejuvenation of the grout in the Hall of Memory; and conservation and re-grouting of sandstone in the Hall of Valour.

A regular maintenance regime ensures the longevity of the Lone Pine tree (Pinus halepensis). A replacement Pinus halepensis, derived from a seed taken from the original Lone Pine, was planted by Their Royal Highnesses The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge on Anzac Day 2014. It is anticipated that this tree will have grown to a suitable size when the original Lone Pine reaches senescence. The new pine is in a very healthy state, assisted by the fence and bird netting which will be expanded in the coming year.

PERFORMANCE TARGET

Timely completion of works to minimise impact on visitors.

RESULT  Met

All minor works at the Memorial, including regular maintenance, cleaning, and conservation of the main building, are scheduled out of hours where possible and in consideration of significant public events. Any major works that may be disruptive are scoped and planned to ensure that intrusive elements of the work are scheduled at the most appropriate times, that alternative arrangements for visitors are made, and that the public is informed.

As noted above, the two-year Commemorative Area Reconstruction Project has been completed. The area’s significance and values have been preserved by removing deteriorating portions of sandstone, especially the string course and sculptural elements of the east and west... walls, and reconstructing them with matching sandstone. Improving the drainage of the cloisters and gardens preserves their functionality as well as protecting the reconstructed stonework and the Memorial’s lower galleries from water damage.

PLAQUE DEDICATION PROGRAM

ROLL OF HONOUR

The Memorial’s bronze Roll of Honour panels were updated for accuracy, with two in situ amendments made.

assists Australians remember the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on society.

A national collection of historical material related to Australia’s military history that is developed, managed, preserved, and interpreted to make it accessible.

OVERVIEW

The centenary of the First World War and the associated theme of commemorating a century of service has generated an unprecedented level of engagement with the National Collection. As well as supporting Australians at home and overseas to understand the significance of milestones in the story of Australia in the First World War, National Collection staff have supported public engagement with the stories of significant anniversaries for the Second World War, Korea, Vietnam, the Gulf War, and peacekeeping operations.

National Collection staff are also focused on ensuring the stories and artefacts of service of current and recent conflicts and operations around the world are collected. We are grateful for the support of the ADF in enabling National Collection staff to be deployed with colleagues in the ADF’s history and heritage units into areas where Australians are serving. In the tradition of Charles Bean and John Treloar, staff are engaged in the field identifying and collecting objects and stories that relate to those operations, the people engaged in them, and their reflections on their experiences.

The Memorial is grateful for collaboration with the ADF through the Collections Coordination Group, which facilitates the liaison between the Memorial and the ADF’s branch history and heritage units. The Defence Capability Acquisition and Sustainment Group (CASG) provides technical expertise and project management in supporting the transfer of assets to the National Collection.

We have been able to regularly commission Official War Artists to travel into operational areas, which is particularly significant in the centenary of the Official War Art program, created through the efforts of Charles Bean in 1917.

Planning for a new 5,000 square metre storage facility at Mitchell is well advanced, with completion expected in December 2018. The new facility will accommodate the large technology collections, including aircraft and a number of new acquisitions relevant to contemporary and recent operations: two naval helicopters (a Seahawk and a Squirrel), an army Blackhawk, an FA18, and a P3C Orion will be acquired between 2018 and 2021. A number of land capability vehicles from operations in the Solomon Islands, East Timor, Iraq, and Afghanistan have been received. The new facility will enable a review of storage of large technology at Mitchell to make the best use of available space.

The new textiles store has been operating successfully with new compactus, environmental and security controls, and new procedures to maintain its status as a clean store. Refurbishments of space in the Treloar A building and armoury have improved security and the general storage environment, and significantly reduced the risk of overcrowding.

The project to clear an accumulation of undocumented items in transit and temporary stores has been completed. New procedures for managing donations of historical material are in place to ensure timely turnaround of documentation for donors, introduction of conservation assessments to better manage risk to the collection, centralisation of documentation on the collection management system, and a significant gain in efficiency from providing guidance to potential donors before material is delivered to the Memorial. These procedures will now be extended to include all acquisitions to ensure systematic documentation, risk management, and financial compliance. The project also led to new procedures for managing radiation hazards in items such as luminous dials and watches, certain kinds of lenses and metal hardeners, and electronic equipment.
The movement of the Menin Gate Lions to their original home at the Menin Gate Memorial in Ieper was a major undertaking of conservation and logistics. The lions will stand at the Menin Gate through the centenary of the battles in Flanders in which Australians suffered so heavily in 1917. The Memorial thanks the Royal Australian Air Force, the Commonwealth War Graves Commission, the Government of Flanders, and the City of Ieper for their support in this major international collaboration.

There was a significant increase in the number of loan requests and items on loan with communities around Australia, and to overseas museums, galleries, and diplomatic posts commemorating events relating to the century of service and the First World War.

The Victoria Cross Project has sought to display as many of the 100 Victoria Crosses awarded to Australians as possible in the Hall of Valour during the Centenary. So far, with the support of private owners and other cultural institutions for loans of the medal, a total of 82 Australian Victoria Crosses are on display at the Memorial.

Linked to that project was the acquisition – courtesy of the generosity of the Department of Defence – of the weapons used by Corporals Mark Donaldson VC and Dan Keighran VC in the actions for which they were awarded the VC in Afghanistan. The Memorial already holds the weapons used by Corporals Ben Roberts-Smith VC MG and Cameron Baird VC MG, both of which are on display in the Hall of Valour. We were privileged to conduct oral histories with Keith Payne VC AM and his wife Florence Payne OAM on their careers and lives working to support veterans.

A partnership with the Anangu Pitjantjatjara Yankunytjatjara (APY) Art Collective has produced a major new work for the National Collection exploring the theme of “defence of country” from an Aboriginal Australian perspective. The work is the product of a collaboration by more than 20 of the most senior artists from communities across the APY lands.

Eight commissions with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander artists for the For Country, for Nation exhibition added significant new bodies of work to the Memorial’s collection relating to the service of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in or supporting the Australian Defence Force. Two major acquisitions were subsequently included in the exhibition: Ruby Plains Massacre 1 by Rover Thomas, and Horso Creek Killings by Queenie McKenzie which tell stories of the violence against Aboriginal people that occurred even as they were enlisting in the armed forces.

The first of a series of international engagements began with a reciprocal artist in residence program with the National Museum of Singapore (NMS). Australian artist Angela Tiatia and Singaporean artist Debbie Ding spent a month working together in Singapore and at the Memorial researching the collections to make new work interpreting the shared history of our countries in the Second World War to mark the 75th anniversary of the Fall of Singapore and all that it meant for our two nations. The Memorial is grateful for the support of the Anzac Centenary Arts and Culture Fund for its support of this program.

Ben Quilty was commissioned to create a new series of works on the emotional impact of war. Called The longest war, the series depicts three women directly affected by the loss or injury of a loved one in Afghanistan.

Renowned singer/songwriter, John Schumann, and his long-time friend and collaborator, the late Hugh McDonald, performed I was only 19 to Vietnam veterans in the Hall of Memory on Vietnam Veterans Day on the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Long Tan. Cinematographer Rhys Graham was commissioned to capture the performance and record video portraits with the veterans.

Charles Bean’s unfulfilled ambition to create an art gallery of the Official War Art Scheme is being brought to life – virtually. An online exhibition entitled Art of nation, is under development which will enable visitors to encounter the First World War art collection as Bean intended it to be displayed, view the paintings, click through to map views and historical images to compare landscapes and locations with their appearance today, and to track the journeys of featured artists through the theatres of the First World War.

Created in November 2015, the Operational Records Working Group (ORWG) is the principal liaison point between the Department of Defence and the National Archives of Australia, and the Memorial in managing the transfer of relevant official records to the National Collection. Digitisation of official records progresses on the basis of conservation need, demand and availability. New releases included Royal Australian Navy reports of proceedings, and army vehicle registration books containing details for tanks, assault vehicles, armoured vehicles, machine-gun carriers, 15 cwt trucks, scout cars, and jeeps between 1938 and 1993.

Official War Artist files relating to Ivor Hele, Frank Norton, Bruce Fletcher, Ken McFadyen, and Wil Dyson were digitised and published online.

Work is underway to create a nominal roll for the Malayan Emergency and Indonesian Confrontation from authoritative archival sources. This will be digitised, indexed, transcribed, and published online in a searchable format.

The Anzac connections program to digitise the diaries and letters of Australians who served with the Australian Imperial Force during the First World War continued with newly digitised collections relating to doctors and musical
This year we were very pleased to add to the following items to the National Collection: artwork by Ben Quilty; a donated manuscript from former Changi POW Alexander “Alick” Russell Downer; Aircraftman Brodie McIntyre’s didgeridoo; the flying log book belonging to Sergeant Len Dorricott, observer and air gunner with 460 Squadron “G for George”; the headstones of George Cross recipients killed in the Cowra Breakout.
Significant additions to displays at the Memorial included three Victoria Cross medals, on loan as part of the Victoria Cross centenary project; Mr Kerry Stokes accepted glass plates negatives of Australian soldiers taken during the First World War from the Mayor of Vignacourt, donating these to the National Collection; Corporal Cameron Baird’s family attended the display of equipment worn during the action for which he was posthumously awarded the Victoria Cross; the eX de Medici painting Cure for pain was donated to the collection and put on display; Commanding Officer of HMAS Darwin, Commander Phillip Henry, presented two AK-47s seized during Operation MANITOU.
performances, military bands and musicians. Collections related to the Battle of Hamel are being digitised and will be progressively released to the website leading up to the centenary of the battle in July 2018.

Oral histories were recorded with 7RAR during its preparation for, deployment to, and return from Iraq. Curatorial deployments to the Middle East captured more than 30 interviews with Defence personnel in theatre and 2,000 images, as well as identifying objects for future collecting. The project to capture the history and work of the Joint IED Task Force was extended to include 20 EOD Squadron.

A collaboration in an Australian Research Council (ARC) Linkage Grant with the Australian National University, researching Australians in Borneo during the Second World War is now in its third and final year. The project has involved interviews with Australian veterans, and fieldwork in Borneo with local people telling their stories about experiences with Australians in the Services Reconnaissance Department (SRD) and Z Special Unit. The project will include an exhibition opening in the first quarter of 2018, and has already produced 10,000 pages of new digitised web content, including maps, personal papers, official records, and new additions to the National Collection.

The Memorial’s first musical artist in residence, Chris Latham, was appointed with the support of the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, the Anzac Centenary Arts and Culture Fund, and a private philanthropist. Latham will record music from the Memorial’s rich collection of manuscript music. An initial suite of 100 pieces of music from the First World War will be recorded and the sheet music digitised and released online over the next two years.

We are very grateful to Canberra Airport and Virgin Airlines for displaying our magnificently restored Second World War Lockheed Hudson in the airport terminal. The restoration took five years to complete, and involved the fabrication of 5,000 parts.

In the short term, restoration projects will focus on completion of a Beaufort bomber that saw intense operational service in New Guinea; an OV-10A Bronco flown by Australian forward air controllers in Vietnam serving in USAF squadrons (with the support of a donation from Dick and Pippa Smith); and scoping work to conserve the V2 and its Meillerwagen (with technical and project management support from QinetiQ).

As well as reprogramming the systemic maintenance of the large technology collection, major conservation work was done on the Centurion tank on display outside Anzac Hall, and a Bushmaster protected mobility vehicle and an eight-wheeled Australian Light Armoured Vehicle (ASLAV) were conserved for display in the grounds.

Conservation specialists have faced some intriguing challenges, including extensive consolidation treatment to conserve friable paint on artworks, and preparing works for an extended program of display. Textiles conservators have been inspecting, conserving, and repacking the collection in the new Textiles and Small Objects Store, including re-rolling the largest flags and pennants, and conservation work on some of the oldest and most delicate banners for exhibition.

Paper conservators have been involved in restoring and cleaning a large body of works on paper in preparation for exhibitions and loans, including washing, light bleaching, and removal of adhesives and stains. The impact in revealing original colours and details is often astonishing. Photo conservators and collection managers have rehoused more than 100,000 acetate negatives to ensure their preservation, and 156 glass negatives were conserved for reproduction in a new annotated publication of Charles Bean’s Western Front diaries being written by Peter Burness AM.

Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience

Staff from the National Collections branch travelled to the 23 locations that housed the national tour of the Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience travelling exhibition to ensure that artefacts from the Memorial’s collection received appropriately care. All artefacts from the travelling exhibition have now been returned safely to the Memorial, demounted from their display cases, assessed by conservation staff, treated where necessary, and returned to long-term storage.
Measuring just over four metres long, eX de Medici’s painting Cure for pain appears as a lush garden composed of military helmets and masks, poppies, roses, and other flowers. Flitting among the flowers, or perched on helmets, are birds, including nightingales, finches and pigeons. Yet, far from an idyllic paradise, these symbols represent over a century of conflict in which Australia has been involved. Acknowledging both enemies and allies, Cure for pain is an expression of our common mortality, and our equality in death. Military hardware has long been a key feature of de Medici’s work, and this prompted her appointment as an official war artist to the Regional Assistance Mission to the Solomon Islands in 2009. De Medici created a body of work that responded to the legacy of colonisation, the impact of the Second World War, and the role of Australian peacekeepers. Cure for pain continues that work as an official war artist, but broadens its scope to encompass Australian military history from the colonial era to the present.

The military helmets evolved from de Medici’s earlier use of the skull, which had been a feature of her watercolours since the late 1990s. However, the proliferation of skulls in popular culture led her to a reworking of this symbol. Skulls had saturated the contemporary art world and had become a useful marketing tool; from highbrow fashion to a print motif on children’s clothes in department stores, the skull had become a trite commodity. The skull had lost the force it once had as a central symbol in 17th century vanitas paintings, where it represented the transience of life and the vanity of human wishes; so de Medici was prompted to evolve the skull metaphor into the representation of a helmet. She expanded on this notion in an interview with the Memorial on 6 May 2010:

“The helmet sits at the same point as a skull. It is a skull. It is the exoskeleton of a skull. It’s a mask. It’s an instrument for other purposes that can cloak identity, for instance, which was my first use of it: the disguise of identity in aggressive situations.”

That same year, she began a series of watercolours devoted to military helmets, including Cure for pain.

The helmets signify different conflicts in which Australia has been involved, starting on the left of the work with two Australian colonial helmets, referring to frontier conflicts as well as representing Australia’s involvement in early international military conflicts. There are five helmets from the First World War, two helmets related to the Second World War.
War, two gas masks, and a range of helmets and goggles related to post-1945 conflicts and peacekeeping operations.

The helmets demonstrate the evolution of combat helmet design over more than a century. Like de Medici’s moth studies at the Commonwealth Scientific Industrial Research Organisation (CSIRO), and her ongoing series portraying weapons, these helmets have the appearance of specimens. De Medici’s meticulously drawn helmets reflect her key observations that the helmet is both a mask and a metaphor for a skull, and that it serves as a contemporary vanitas representing death, violence, and commemoration.

Cure for pain was generously donated to the Memorial – through the Australian Government’s Cultural Gifts Program – by Erika Krebs-Woodward in 2016 and is on display as part of the exhibition The deceiving eye, located on the Mezzanine Gallery of Anzac Hall until 11 September 2017.

Memorial Integrated Collection Access (MICA)

The Memorial Integrated Collection Access (MICA) system is the collection management system used for the recording of all items accessioned to the National Collection, as well as other items such as the education collection, plaques, etc. Other Memorial systems such as the Memorial website and the Digital Asset Management System (DAMS), rely on information from MICA to complete business functions.

An “object record” within MICA can contain numerous individual items. For example, the Memorial’s iconic “G for George” Lancaster bomber, while being a single “record” within MICA, contains many individual items, each detailing a different component of the aircraft such as its fuselage, wings, propellers, engine, etc.

2,396 object records (12,301 items) were added to MICA, and to the National Collection, in the 2016–17 financial year.

Acquisitions

Throughout the year, the Memorial continued its work in growing the National Collection and gathering artefacts and historically important items to tell the story of Australia’s experience in war. Many interesting and unique pieces were accessioned during the year, including:

Sandakan letter

A letter written to Sandakan prisoner of war Herman “Algie” Reither by his mother in late June 1943. The letter came into the care of Sandakan death camp survivor Bill Sticpewich when Algie died after the two escaped from Ranau together. The letter was preserved in a New Testament and describes the comings and goings of different people from his extended family. It tells of his mother’s declining health, farming difficulties, and news from home.

eX de Medici artwork

The artwork entitled Cure for pain was donated through the Australian Government’s Cultural Gifts Program by Erika Krebs-Woodward.

Restored Royal Enfield

A restored Royal Enfield motorcycle originally issued to Lark Force at Rabaul was donated under the Cultural Gifts program. The motorbike is thought to have returned to Australia just weeks before the Japanese invasion.

World Trade Centre images

Two photographs of the World Trade Centre attacks on 11 September 2001 which have rarely been available on the commercial market, come from a series captured by Associated Press Photographer Richard Drew and are some of the most important images captured on that awful and portentous day. The images depict the collapse of the south tower and people falling through the air, having jumped to escape the heat from one of the burning World Trade Centre towers.

Phillip Schuler portrait

This significant portrait of Melbourne Age war correspondent and great friend of Charles Bean, Philip Schuler (1889–1917), was acquired from a private seller. As war correspondent for the Melbourne Age, Schuler enlisted following his time as a war correspondent and was commissioned as a lieutenant. Wounded in action at the battle of Messines, he died of wounds on 23 June 1917.

“G for George” log books

Log book owned by Sergeant Len Dorricott 460 Squadron, detailing flights of “G for George”.

Dioramas

In 2016, contemporary artist Richard Lewer was invited to produce a new body of work in response to the Australian War Memorial’s collection for the Art Gallery of South Australia’s exhibition Sappers and shrapnel: contemporary art and the art of the trenches. Lewer’s dioramas serve a different purpose to those initially commissioned by the Australian War Memorial in the 1920s: they focus closely on individuals or groups of soldiers, suspending moments in time to capture the daily routine of troops and their surroundings. These six dioramas serve as small sites of empathic re-enactment and present an engaging contemporary response to the topic of remembrance and how we remember Australia’s involvement in the First World War.

Sculptures

Two early sculptures by renowned sculpture and former RAAF officer Robert Klippel, No. 11 Grief and No. 9 Anguish, were made in 1944 as Klippel was transitioning from being a model maker for the RAAF to a professional artist. They represent his experience of serving in the Second World War and losing his brother in combat.

Sidney Nolan painting

The remarkable work by renowned artist Sidney Nolan depicts Simpson and his donkey. Nolan completed this work as part of a large series of paintings on the subject of Gallipoli, most of which depicted soldiers and landscapes. While other well-known depictions of Simpson picture the soldier astride or alongside his donkey, Nolan’s work features Simpson carrying the donkey across his shoulders. This painting was generously donated to the Memorial by Margaret Favilla.

Escape map
This Belgian map was used by Lance Corporal Frederick Peachey during his escape from German captivity in 1917, during the First World War. The escape route used by Peachey is drawn onto the map and there are more annotations on the reverse side. Also included are postcards sent by the Australian Red Cross Prisoner of War Department to Peachey after his capture at Bullecourt on 11 April 1917. The postcards never reached Peachey as he escaped before internment in Germany.

AFGHANISTAN: THE AUSTRALIAN STORY

In October 2016, the Memorial launched the Afghanistan: the Australian story DVD. Directed and narrated by leading Australian journalist Chris Masters, the two-disc DVD includes a 50-minute feature documentary and extracts of the 38 interviews conducted with current and former Australian Defence Force personnel and their families. It also contains film and photographs drawn from the Memorial’s Afghanistan: the Australian story exhibition. The Memorial took the opportunity to include new material that has become available since the exhibition was developed in 2013, particularly through the Department of Defence. Eleven new interviews were conducted by Chris Masters, focusing on the role of Special Forces in Afghanistan, an under-represented aspect of the current exhibition. New content collected and interviews conducted during the development of the DVD are currently being used to update the gallery experience. The updated version of the audio visual experience is due for completion in July 2017.

GALLERY UPDATES

Second World War galleries

Completed at the end of 2016, recent work in the Second World War galleries includes the rearrangement of large objects to address visitor circulation issues and to reposition the LePkw Type 82 Kubelwagen and BMW motorcycle which have been subject to damage due to their open display. A new low-level two-section plinth with glass barriers for the display of large objects (the tankette; the BMW motorcycle; the Kubelwagen; the German Flak 38 anti-aircraft gun; and the Chevrolet lorry and Breda anti-aircraft gun) will be part of the changes to the galleries.

The Holocaust exhibit

A new permanent display titled The Holocaust: witnesses and survivors opened to the public in the Second World War galleries in November 2016. The exhibition tells the story of the Holocaust through the experiences of several survivors who made lives in post-war Australia. The exhibition has been developed by the Australian War Memorial with the support of the Jewish Holocaust Centre and includes over 85 collection items from both institutions. Many of these items are original documentation from Jewish men, women, and children who survived ghettos, and concentration and extermination camps.

Hall of Valour

The Victoria Cross Project has sought to display as many of the 100 Victoria Crosses awarded to Australians as possible in the Hall of Valour during the Centenary. So far, with the support of private owners and other cultural institutions, 82 Australian Victoria Crosses are on display at the Memorial. During the course of this project, the Memorial has acquired nine Australian Victoria or George Crosses for the National Collection:

- Corporal Lawrence Carthage Weathers VC
- Lieutenant Chalmers Borella VC MM
- Sergeant Samuel George Pearse VC MM
- Warrant Officer Class II Keith Payne VC AM
- Sergeant James Rogers VC
- Sergeant John Woods Whittle VC DCM
- Private Horace William Madden GC
- Lieutenant Arthur Gerald Bagot GC DSC
- Captain Lionel Colin Matthews GC MC

The Victoria Cross and medal group awarded to Private Reginald Roy Inwood VC (First World War) was demounted and returned during this period. Other changes to the space include the inclusion of the Order of Australia awarded to Keith Payne VC, and the display of the pistol belonging to Second Lieutenant Frederick Birks VC MM.

A new display featuring the uniform items and weapon of Corporal Cameron Baird VC MG alongside the uniform and weapon of Corporal Ben Roberts-Smith VC MG was unveiled in the Hall of Valour on 14 September 2016. Corporal Baird was killed in the final moments of an assault in the Afghan village of Ghawchak on 22 June 2013. The new display features items of his uniform and the damaged M4 carbine he was using during the operation. The VC for Baird’s action was the first awarded to a member of an Australian commando unit and has been on display in the Hall of Valour in 2014.

Anzac Hall

A project to update two new permanent displays in Anzac Hall commenced in early 2017. The first exhibition is centred on the Mark IV tank and focuses on the evolution of tanks during the First World War. The exhibition is due for completion in July 2017.

The second exhibition is related to the battle of Milne Bay. Fought between 25 August and 7 September 1942, the battle is often described as the first decisive Allied victory over Japanese forces in the Pacific. The new permanent exhibition focuses on this significant battle and will include key objects including the captured Japanese Ha Go tank and battle relics. The launch of the display is scheduled to coincide with the 75th anniversary of the battle in August 2017.

OTHER GALLERIES

Eight displays of works on paper were completed, featuring in each of the permanent galleries. Four displays were changed over in the Reading Room, one focusing on Vietnam Veterans Day, and three focused on the 75th anniversary of the Memorial. Minor works to the display infrastructure
The Holocaust: witnesses and survivors presents the experiences of survivors who made new lives in post-war Australia, and the works of Australian official war artist Alan Moore. At the exhibition opening, attended by members of the Jewish Holocaust Centre, Irma Hanner spoke about her possessions included in the exhibition.
Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander stories of military service in times of war and peace are told in For Country, for Nation. Exploring themes of remembrance and tradition through family histories, objects, art, and photographs from across Australia, the exhibition was opened with a traditional smoking ceremony. and showcases were implemented in the Reading Room to coincide with the commencement of the 75th anniversary series of displays.

Three small displays have been installed in the Captain Reg Saunders Gallery including an art and work on paper display supporting the commencement of the 75th anniversary of the Memorial, a photographic display titled A good little chap: Herbert Baldwin which included framed photographs and a small selection of film and objects, and Badhu Koewbu Kidhal, World War story as its told. The current display includes five works by Badhulgaw Kuthinaw Mudh (Badu Art Centre) on Badu (Mulgrave Island) in the Zenadh Kes (Torres Strait) that interpret Torres Strait Islander service during the Second World War and its enduring legacy for the Badu community. The works were commissioned by the Memorial in 2016.

A strong focus on maintaining the high standard of the Memorial’s 10,000 square metre exhibition space was continued throughout the year. Minor building works included the refurbishment of the Anzac Hall link bridge, mezzanine, viewing platform, and staircase which was completed in September 2016. Refurbishment of the space included the removal of the permanent Anzac spirit exhibition to enable the space to be used for temporary exhibitions. Continued development and modernisation of all gallery audio-visual infrastructure has yielded more reliable and flexible displays and provided a platform for future development.

TEMPORARY EXHIBITIONS

Mephisto: The devil’s chariot
To commemorate the centenary of the First World War, the temporary exhibition Mephisto: the devil’s chariot, continued throughout 2016–17 until closing to the public on 28 May 2017. The only surviving German tank from First World War, “Mephisto” was displayed at the Memorial for two years before returning to Brisbane in June 2017. Development of a new permanent display focused on the Mark IV tank has commenced and will open to the public early in 2017–18.

WW1 Avenue of honour
The Memorial launched two temporary exhibitions in the refurbished mezzanine in Anzac Hall. The first exhibition, WW1 Avenue of honour: Trent Parke, opened on 9 September 2016, featuring a series of images photographed at the Ballarat Avenue of Honour by Australian photographer Trent Parke. In 2014 Parke was invited to participate in the international exhibition The First World War now, presented by the renowned Magnum Photos agency in Bruges, Belgium, to mark 100 years since the German army’s invasion of the city. In response, Parke produced a series of images photographed at the Ballarat Avenue of Honour, the longest avenue of honour in Australia and one of the earliest known memorial avenues planted in Victoria during the First World War.

The deceiving eye
On 21 March 2017, a new temporary exhibition, The deceiving eye, opened to the public for a period of six months. The exhibition features previously unseen camouflage photographs by Australian artist Frank Hinder that document his experiences in developing camouflage suitable for the Australian environment. The exhibition also focuses on the recently donated work Cure for pain, by artist eX de Medici, which explores Australia’s military history and demonstrates the evolution of combat helmet design and camouflage over the last century. A small selection of objects including a “Yowie suit” for camouflage is also displayed.

Reality in flames: modern Australian art and the Second World War

For Country, for Nation
For Country, for Nation opened to the public on 23 September 2016. The exhibition is the culmination of a significant body of research undertaken by the Memorial to discover the identities and stories of what are believed to be several thousand Indigenous men and women who served in our armed forces since and before Federation. The exhibition recognises the valuable and selfless military service of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, and their contribution to the Anzac legend.

The Memorial is the custodian of a diverse range of cultural material relating to Indigenous service. The mediums of text, story, art, objects, photographs, dance, and music are used within the exhibition. The exhibition draws heavily on the Memorial’s Indigenous art collection. A significant aspect of For Country, for Nation was the commissioning of Indigenous artists to tell their stories of family and community connections to the defence of Australia. Recently commissioned artists include Andrew Snelgar, Vicki West, Gabriel Nodea, Patrick Freddy Puruntatameri, Glenda and Marlyne Nicholls, and Clair Bates.

From the shadows: Australia’s Special Forces
Development of the special exhibition From the shadows: Australia’s special forces continues. The exhibition will cover the history and development of special forces from the Second World War to the present day, and focus on the capabilities of special forces operators, their role abroad and at home, and what they have done. The exhibition is being developed in collaboration with Special Operations Command...
Australia and will include a number of loaned objects from units under the command of Special Operation Command (SOCOMD), individuals, and the Memorial’s collection. The exhibition will open to the public in September 2017.

Aftermath: the consequences of war

Development of the special exhibition Aftermath: the consequences of war (working title) commenced in December 2016. Opening to coincide with the centenary of the Armistice in 2018, the exhibition will cover the past 100 years – from the end of the First World War to the present day.

A home on a southern hill exhibition series

The exhibition series A home on a southern hill was developed to mark the 75th anniversary of the opening of the Australian War Memorial on Remembrance Day 1941. Unfolding over the 75th anniversary year of the Australian War Memorial, A home on a southern hill is a series of exhibitions which tell the story of how the Memorial was brought to being, as well as exploring its history and continuing relevance. The series takes its name from a poem written by Will Dyson to accompany his 1928 cartoon, Calling them home, which depicts a ghostly bugler calling the spirits of Australia’s war dead to the yet-to-be-built Memorial.

They dreamed of leave that never came.

Now each man is a living fame.
But dreams it still. They dream of a call to a last route march, Back to a land where the grey gums arch. To a home on a Southern hill.

The first exhibition in the series, (November 2016 to April 2017) told the story of the Memorial building from C.E.W. Bean’s initial sketch, through the 1925 architectural competition and the set-backs and controversies of the 1930s, to its official opening on 11 November 1941. Unfolding over the 75th anniversary year of the Australian War Memorial, A home on a southern hill is a series of exhibitions which tell the story of how the Memorial was brought to being, as well as exploring its history and continuing relevance. The series takes its name from a poem written by Will Dyson to accompany his 1928 cartoon, Calling them home, which depicts a ghostly bugler calling the spirits of Australia’s war dead to the yet-to-be-built Memorial.

TOURING EXHIBITIONS

Development of a national tour for the special exhibition For Country, for Nation is underway as part of the revitalisation of the Memorial’s Touring Exhibitions program. A national tour to capital cities and regional venues is expected to commence in April 2018.

The 2016–18 extension tour of Remember me: the lost diggers of Vignacourt commenced in December 2016. The exhibition was displayed at the Glasshouse Gallery, Port Macquarie, NSW (17 December 2016 to 5 February 2017), and the Pinnacles Gallery, Townsville, Qld (25 February 2017 to 30 April 2017). The exhibition achieved a total visitation of 14,315. Remember me will tour to a further six venues over the next 18 months.

To Flanders fields, 1917 the second exhibition in the Australians on the Western Front 1916–1918 series was produced in two sets to tour to metropolitan and regional club venues, as part of the continuing relationship between the Memorial and the NSW RSL and Service Clubs Association.

THE SPIRIT OF ANZAC CENTENARY EXPERIENCE

The Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience (SACE) was the flagship community event of the Australian Government’s Anzac Centenary national program. The Anzac Centenary Travelling Exhibition, which would eventually become Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience, was first officially proposed in the report of the National Commission on the Commemoration of the Anzac centenary in March 2011. The proposal for a travelling exhibition was endorsed by the Anzac Centenary Advisory Board in its Report to Government in March 2013, noting that a travelling exhibition “could be a flagship Anzac centenary project”.

In early 2014 the Australian War Memorial contracted Imagination (Australia) Pty Ltd as the creative designer for a national travelling commemorative exhibition to tour to all states of Australia and the Northern Territory. In late 2014 Commonwealth Bank and Telstra committed significant funding and resources to further develop the project.

The SACE was delivered by a partnership between Department of Defence, Department of Veterans’ Affairs, Australian War Memorial, Commonwealth Bank, and Telstra. Governance of the project was overseen by the Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience Executive Committee Chaired by the Envoy the Honourable Tim Fischer AC, with the Memorial represented by Dr Brendan Nelson AO. The operations of the project were managed by a Steering Group of the partners with the Memorial represented by Major General Brian Dawson AM CSC (Retd). The SACE project was funded by the deed partners in accordance with the Partnering Deed.
The newly installed Middle East galleries opened to the public on the 6 October 2016.
The Mezzanine Gallery of Anzac Hall hosted two temporary exhibitions: Trent Parke’s WWI Avenue of Honour featured photographs made at the Ballarat Avenue of Honour, the longest avenue of honour in Australia and one of the earliest known memorial avenues to have been planted in Victoria during the First World; The deceiving eye presents changing approaches to camouflage from the colonial wars to the war in Afghanistan.
“Brilliant exhibition. Congratulations to all involved including the sponsors. This should be compulsory for all high school kids. Charles Bean would be proud.”

Tim Scott, Facebook, 22 April 2017.

SACE was developed by Imagination (Australia) Pty Ltd in close consultation with the Australian War Memorial over a period of 14 months. The exhibition was designed to be highly experiential, with interactive technology employed throughout, allowing Australians around the country to see first-hand over 200 First World War artefacts from the Memorial’s national collection, and interpretive materials spanning the wars, conflicts, and peacekeeping operations in which Australia has been involved.

SACE was launched on 4 September 2015 in Albury-Wodonga and over the following 19 months toured another 22 locations across Australia: Launceston, Hobart, Ballarat, Bendigo, Wollongong, Melbourne, Adelaide, Tamworth, Toowoomba, Brisbane, Mackay, Cairns, Townsville, Darwin, Port Augusta, Perth, Bunbury (Eaton), Kalgoorlie-Boulder, Geelong, Orange, Newcastle and Sydney. Across all the tour locations a total of 368,016 people attended, including 49,707 students in school groups.

Memorial staff travelled to each location to ensure the Memorial’s National Collection items were appropriately cared for, particularly during bump-in and bump-out at each of the venues. All items have been returned safely to the Memorial.

SACE was very well received, with 99 per cent of attendees who responded saying that they would recommend SACE to friends and family. Of comments received, 94 per cent were unreservedly positive, and 5 per cent were positive with suggestions or constructive criticism. SACE achieved a Net Promotor Score (NPS) of 85.

The Memorial’s financial contribution to the project was made from the $10 million seed funding provided by government in 2013.

No major incidents occurred during the life of the project. All incidents were reviewed by the Project Security and WHS Working Group, and where appropriate mitigation strategies were put in place. No claims have been made in relation to any incident and there is no reason to believe that any claim is to be expected.

The Mephisto Visitor Survey concluded with the return of the tank to Brisbane. The final survey result reinforced that the display had a strong and positive impact upon visitors.

- 99 per cent of those interviewed liked seeing such a rare object, 77 per cent strongly agreed.
- 95 per cent agreed that the display had demonstrated the dramatic impact of technology on land warfare.
- 95 per cent felt that the display had improved their knowledge about the use of the A7V tank.
- 82 per cent felt it provided a realistic insight into Australian encounters with the Mephisto tank on the Western Front.
- 72 per cent agreed or strongly agreed that the display gave them a better understanding of the Australian experience of war.
Permanent exhibitions developed and maintained to the highest standards.

RESULT  Met

During the past year, 27 exhibitions and smaller displays were developed and implemented in the Memorial’s permanent galleries. Key exhibitions included Mephisto: the devil’s chariot, Reality in flames: modern Australian art and the Second World War, and the external display of the Bushmaster Protected Mobility Vehicle.

In addition to new exhibitions and displays, a strong focus on maintaining the high standard of presentation in the Memorial’s existing 10,000 square metre exhibition space continued. Key achievements included a renewal of external way-finding signage, the rebuild of audio and intelligent lighting systems for major sound and light shows in Anzac Hall, and the progression of the systematic installation of highly efficient LED lighting throughout the galleries.

Satisfaction ratings for the Memorial’s permanent galleries which have included development or upgrade works were as follows:

- 99 per cent “satisfied” with Commemorative Area (83 per cent “very satisfied”)
- 99 per cent “satisfied” with First World War galleries (84 per cent “very satisfied”)
- 99 per cent “satisfied” with Anzac Hall (83 per cent “very satisfied”)
- 92 per cent “satisfied” with temporary exhibitions (72 per cent “very satisfied”)
- 98 per cent rated Mephisto: the devil’s chariot exhibition as “very good” or “good” (62 per cent “very good”).

A minimum of one exhibition displayed per year in the Special Exhibitions Gallery.

RESULT  Met

The Special Exhibitions Gallery features two displays in 2016-17: Reality in flames: modern Australian art and the Second World War and For Country, for Nation. Full details on these exhibits can be found under “Temporary Exhibitions”, page 51.

Understanding of Australia’s experience of war is enhanced through provision of interactive interpretation, including school and public education programs and public events.

OVERVIEW

Staff from across the Memorial delivered a diverse range of programs, including gallery and collection talks, and behind-the-scenes curator tours. A weekly story-time program was delivered for pre-schoolers and school holiday tours, and hands-on programs were available for families. Museum theatre performances and summer film screenings continued to attract strong visitor numbers. Performer Brett Hunt returned this year to deliver his performances for school students, the First World War – themed Fightin’ the Kaiser and Vietnam-focused Dusted off.

A new online resource, A very special day, has provided young learners and their teachers with information and activities related to the symbols and ceremonies connected with commemoration. This resource has already attracted over 4,000 visitors.

Late-night openings of the Commemorative Area were undertaken on Friday and Saturday evenings in January, enabling visitors to view the illuminated Hall of Memory and pay respect to the fallen during the centenary of the First World War.

In 2016–17 145,927 school visitors (students and accompanying adults) visited the Memorial in the reporting period, with almost 89 per cent undertaking facilitated education programs linked to the Australian curriculum. These programs have been expanded to incorporate the learning statements of the new Australian curriculum: civics and citizenship. In particular, they explore Australia’s role as a global citizen, and Australians’ willingness over more than a century to serve to ensure that democratic freedom continues.
The Memorial’s engagement with school students includes school wreathlaying ceremonies, sometimes accompanied by Members of Parliament, and hosting winners of the Simpson Prize.
Each year the Memorial’s storage facility at the Treloar Technology Centre in Mitchell is opened to the public at an event called Big things in store. This event provides an opportunity for the public to view the items in storage and gain an understanding of the conservation techniques used to preserve this unique collection.

In 2016–17, 550 public programs were delivered in the galleries to just over 17,520 visitors. The involvement of staff from across the Memorial ensured that the programs were diverse, engaging, and suitable for a variety of audiences. They included collection-based talks; curator-led tours; film screenings; behind the scenes art, research centre, and collection focused tours; and professional museum theatre performances exploring the role of women in wartime.

There was also a popular range of programs that catered for young visitors, including family tours, story time, holiday workshops, craft, and Hands-on history, an interactive activity based on the principles of haptic learning.

Facilitated learning programs at the Australian War Memorial are engaging educational activities for school students, aged from preschool to Year 12. Programs are developed according to the Australian curriculum for History, and Civics and Citizenship, and are designed to assist students to remember, interpret, and understand the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on Australian society.

As part of the Anzac Legacy program, students participate in the centenary Commemorative Crosses project. Students write personal messages on small wooden crosses, which are sent overseas and placed on the graves of Australians who died in war and were buried on foreign soil.

In 2016–17, 132,822 students visited the Memorial, with approximately 89 per cent, or 118,338 participating in a facilitated program.

Memorial Boxes for schools in all Australian states and territories to borrow during the year.

RESULT Met

The Memorial Box program remains a highly-requested and well-regarded outreach learning resource. The 97 themed boxes administered by Education staff and state agents cover conflicts from the First World War to today. They contain case studies along with hands-on items such as uniforms, medals, badges, and publications. To expand the reach of the boxes, the case studies for boxes 1 and 3, which were redeveloped in 2015–16, are available on the Memorial’s website.
In 2016–17, 377 schools and community groups borrowed a Memorial box reaching an estimated audience of over 45,000 users. Secondary schools make up almost 45 per cent of all borrowers, with primary schools approximately 44 per cent, and community groups, such as public libraries, aged care facilities, and after-school care groups making up the remainder. A survey of Memorial Box borrowers indicated a high satisfaction rate, with an average rating of 8.8 out of 10. The program has been continued thanks to funding from the Department of Veterans’ Affairs.

With the launch of the new website, the Memorial’s education webpages have been simplified and consolidated, making them more relevant and accessible to a wider audience. This year, the digital resource A very special day, was added to the website. This resource provides young learners and their teachers with information and activities related to the symbols and ceremonies connected with commemoration through inquiry learning, short films, interactive displays, and classroom activities. This resource has already received over 4,100 page views. The most popular online resource was Understanding Gallipoli with more than 8,900 page views. The Classroom showcase continues to be a popular site for young Australians to display their creative work. There has been a modest increase to over 130,000 visits to the Education components of the Memorial’s website. A significant component of this (almost 35 per cent) was driven from our Facebook activity. Interest in the “Education at the Australian War Memorial” Facebook page has continued to grow, with the most popular posts being the Invasion of Malaya and the Soldiers in Residence reaching almost 50,000 users.

“Thank you so much for supporting our students. The memorial box was great. Students were surprised and moved and informed by its contents.”
St. Monica’s College, Vic, March 2017

“Great resource! The students learnt a lot from having hands on articles to see and touch.”
Kingswood South Public School, NSW April 2017

“It was fantastic. The website is also a wonderful resource. The young students thoroughly enjoyed it.”
Sacred Heart Catholic Primary School, NT, March 2017

Other interpretive activities

The Soldiers in Residence program continued this year with four members of the Australian Army spending three weeks at the Memorial. The program allows veterans to familiarise themselves with both front- and back-of-house operations at the Memorial, and learn about commemoration and collection preservation. Of equal benefit is the soldiers’ openness to share aspects of Australian Defence Force culture and practices that enhances understanding of their experiences.
One of the soldiers, Sergeant Nick Neleman, reflected upon his time at the Memorial in an article in Army, the soldiers’ newspaper, in October 2016. In the article, he spoke eloquently of the experience and his realisation that his service and that of his colleagues, is immensely important and respected.

In collaboration with the History Teachers’ Association of Australia, the Department of Education and Training, and the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, the Memorial continued to support the annual Simpson Prize competition. This First World War-themed, national essay-writing competition is for secondary students. Staff researched links to relevant source material from the Memorial’s collection which were provided online to assist students with their research and writing.

The sixth title in the Century of Service publications series, Comradeship: stories of friendship and recreation in wartime was developed by the Memorial’s Education staff and published in collaboration with the Department of Veterans’ Affairs in June 2017. The third book in the series, Ancestry: stories of multicultural Anzacs, (published in 2015), was runner up in the information category in the Children’s Book Council of Australia Book of the Year Awards in August 2016.

Memorial staff delivered four professional development sessions and familiarisations throughout the year, to 70 school teachers and 25 tour operators. These programs equip teachers to better use the Memorial’s collection and historical content in the classroom, and promote the learning opportunities available on-site and online.

In June 2017, the Memorial hosted a successful one day performance season of Troubie Productions’ Dusted off, and Fightin’ the Kaiser performed in the BAE Systems Theatre by Brett Hunt. Over 400 students and teachers attended three shows.

The Memorial hosted the annual Legacy Youth (formerly Florance Foundation) visit of junior Legatees to the Memorial, this year facilitating 13 students on gallery tours, and at the National Ceremony on Anzac Day.

PROMOTION AND COMMUNITY SERVICES

assist Australians remember the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on society.

OVERVIEW

The Memorial is focused on providing best practice communications with an emphasis on innovative and integrated digital, marketing and public relations activity. During this reporting period, the Memorial delivered two major communication outcomes: a redeveloped website and a new brand positioning campaign.

The new website is strategically focused on building new audiences for the Memorial. Through the Digital Engagement Strategy we aim to deepen the community’s connection with the service and sacrifice of those who have served our nation.

Following a year of considered development, including extensive stakeholder engagement and market testing, a new national brand positioning campaign was launched in early June. The new positioning statement is “...for we are young and free”. A subsequent campaign has been developed to encourage visitation to the Memorial and its website, to reflect on the enduring impact of war.

PORTFOLIO BUDGET STATEMENTS

PERFORMANCE TARGET

An engaging website and social media presence with accurate information.

RESULT  Met

The Memorial successfully launched its new website on 30 May 2017. With a large migration of existing content and a new search function that covers the collection and rolls databases, this was a significant achievement. The new site features best practice usability and a clean design and provides greater access to our vast digitised collection. Since launching, the site the Memorial has received active feedback from some users of collection and rolls databases with specific searching needs. A clear road-map for future enhancements and further improved functionality has been developed, including the delivery of advanced search functionality, and access to the previous site. This ensures our researcher user base can access data in a way that they are comfortable with.

PORTFOLIO BUDGET STATEMENTS

PERFORMANCE TARGET

High quality service to media to encourage suitable coverage in all forms of media.

RESULT  Met

The Memorial continues to garner enviable media coverage for events, visits, exhibitions and commemorations. High quality content is regularly produced, carefully designed to appeal to the media and the community.

The Memorial continues to liaise closely with media outlets and relevant stakeholders, building on strong existing relationships to leverage coverage which has been overwhelmingly positive. Focus on significant military anniversaries, events and ceremonies, exhibitions, and collection items has ensured the Memorial maintains a substantial presence across all types of media.

Regular media and public relations activity continues to help promote projects and programs to regional, national, and international audiences.

Throughout the reporting period 37 media releases were created, resulting in a high level of coverage. The media release issued on 14 September 2016, regarding the display of equipment worn by Corporal Cameron Baird VC MG generated significant local and national media interest across print, television, online, and radio. Relationships developed and fostered with media outlets resulted in the Director, as well as curators, historians, and other experts, receiving media opportunities to discuss the work of the Memorial.

Alongside traditional media activity, the Memorial continues to foster excellent working relationships with non-traditional media entities, including documentary, film and program makers, and digital content creators (including The Dead Prussian podcast). The team welcomed numerous international film crews whose content will contribute to broadcasting the Memorial’s mission and purpose to new audiences.

Remembrance Day and Anzac Day

The Memorial received extensive media attention in the lead-up to Remembrance Day 2016, including significant coverage of the 75th anniversary of the opening of the Australian War Memorial.
The Memorial has several artworks honouring the service of animals in conflict. A sculpture honouring Explosive Detection Dogs and their handlers provided a suitable backdrop for a ceremony awarding the Canine Operational Service Medal. This sculpture was enhanced with the addition of an operational water bowl for visiting dogs.
Among the many veterans who visited the Memorial was Mr Murray Maxton, who conducted test flights in “G for George” during the Second World War. Mr Maxton took his seat in the cockpit and viewed Stella Bowen’s portrait of Bomber Command pilot Hughie Edwards VC.
Memorial. An analysis of coverage produced during 9–13 November 2016 found 872 news items, reaching a cumulative audience of 36,140,325.

For Anzac Day 2017, media coverage during 24–26 April generated 883 news items across radio, print, television, and online, reaching a maximum cumulative audience of 24,476,835 people.

PORTFOLIO BUDGET STATEMENTS

PERFORMANCE TARGET

High quality marketing and promotional activities.

RESULT Met

During this reporting period, the Memorial embarked on a new national brand positioning campaign, aimed at assisting Australians to reflect on our nation’s experience of war and the stories of our defence force personnel. The campaign builds on the Memorial’s unique position as a place to reflect on the history of Australians in conflict and gain a deeper understanding of what it means to be Australian. A new positioning statement “…for we are young and free” was developed for the campaign. It tested well in focus groups and resonated with key stakeholders. The positioning statement features throughout the campaign and aims to encapsulate the Memorial’s unique goal of honouring Australia’s servicemen and servicewomen whilst encouraging audiences to find a personal connection to their stories of service and sacrifice.

The campaign encourages people to reflect on service to our nation, and utilises the imagery and stories of actual servicemen and servicewomen from Australia’s defence forces over the past 100 years. The campaign featured in print and digital and on localised television primarily through community service announcements.

Ongoing marketing and advertising activity continues to help drive visitation and promote the Memorial’s brand.

A number of integrated marketing and advertising campaigns were implemented throughout the year in support of permanent and temporary exhibitions, and to promote commemorations, anniversaries, educational programs, tours, talks, and launch events. Marketing and advertising activity supported two major commemorative days: Remembrance Day 2016 and Anzac Day 2017.

Ongoing promotion of the Memorial’s permanent exhibitions included Australia in the Great War and Middle East, which targeted a national audience via television, print, and digital channels. A summer campaign – What’s on this summer – featured the Middle East exhibition and highlighted the daily Last Post Ceremony, children’s activities, and educational programs offered during the summer period.

A major national marketing campaign promoting For Country, for Nation was launched and continues to run across numerous advertising channels driving awareness of and visitation to this exhibition.

PORTFOLIO BUDGET STATEMENTS

PERFORMANCE TARGET

Number of visits to the website.

RESULT Met

Website visits increased 2.16 per cent from the previous year, with a total of 5,614,989 sessions, a marginal increase from 5,415,393. Anzac Day traffic increased substantially, with an increase of 47.66 per cent (270,038 sessions for the day, compared to 182,873 the previous year). These increases can be attributed to increased efforts to drive traffic to the website through social media channels and an integrated content marketing strategy.

The average user session duration reduced slightly to 4 minutes 6 seconds (from 4 minutes 20 seconds), with session times remaining over 4 minutes, demonstrating users are actively engaged with content.

Mobile and tablet access to the website increased, accounting for 36.14 per cent of total users (an increase on last year’s total of 35 per cent). Desktop sessions as a percentage of overall visitors reduced from 64 per cent to 60 per cent. The increase in tablet and mobile device use is consistent with global trends and the responsive design of the new website will continue to cater for this traffic.

PORTFOLIO BUDGET STATEMENTS

PERFORMANCE TARGET

Number of social media interactions.

RESULT Met

The Memorial’s social media presence continued to grow in reach and engagement.

Flickr views for the period exceeded 3.4 million views, and Facebook followers grew significantly over the reporting year to 99,650 followers – an increase of 21,145 – and is forecast to reach 100,000 by the end August 2017. Monthly reach of Facebook posts ranged from 1–3 million people per month, with peak reach in April during Anzac Day commemorations.

Launched in September 2016, the Facebook Live platform was introduced to stream the daily Last Post Ceremony. Each ceremony reaches between 50,000 and 200,000 users, with high engagement rates. This initiative allowed users who are not physically present to experience the ceremony.
A positive increase has also been experienced across other social channels. The Memorial’s Instagram account has seen a substantial increase in followers, whose engagement rate has tripled. Our followers have increased from 5,000 to 7,933, and the average ‘likes’ on posts has increased from 30–40 to 150–220.

PERFORMANCE TARGET

Number of media items including television, radio, online and print media.

RESULT  Met

A total of 18,606 media items were recorded during the year, 99.99 per cent of which were positive. This represents a 34.9 per cent increase in the total number of media items on last financial year.

OTHER PROMOTIONAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICES ACTIVITIES

Friends of the Memorial

The Friends of the Memorial membership program offers a range of benefits and member-only events. Membership is available to individuals and families, clubs and organisations. The program has approximately 1,540 active members. This reporting period saw a modest increase in the cost of membership. New membership categories for students and defence personnel were introduced.

The Friends of the Memorial program ran a variety of events during the year, the most popular a behind-the-scenes tour of the Mitchell precinct storage areas. Other events included a curator talk about the Siege of Elands River, and an anniversary presentation on the battle of Maryang San.

Friends also attend Remembrance Day and Anzac Day ceremonies. Over 500 Friends of the Memorial attended the National Ceremony on Anzac Day.

Memorial branding – Centenary of the First World War

The centenary brand continues to be widely used in support of many Memorial and non-commercial community initiatives across Australia. The brand, specifically designed for the centenary period and featuring the Memorial’s logo, adorns much of the Memorial’s marketing and media presence, enhancing the commemoration of significant First World War anniversaries throughout the remaining years of the centenary.

Roll of Honour soundscapes

The Memorial continues to focus on the Roll of Honour Soundscape project through the “Remember me” smartphone application. Designed to engage directly with primary school-aged children throughout the centenary period, this program records students speaking the names and ages of the more than 60,000 Australians who died during the First World War. These recordings are played in the First World War section of the cloisters in the Commemorative Area of the Memorial. Further promotional activity of the project occurred this year, alongside technical upgrades, to ensure continued public engagement.

Commemorative crosses

The Memorial’s Commemorative Crosses project provides primary school-aged children with an avenue to mark their respect for those Australians who died in active service.

Students are provided with a blank cross, on which they write individual reflections on those Australians who have sacrificed their lives in war and on operations. The crosses are collected and reviewed prior to distribution to embassies, private individuals, and organisations for use in commemorative activities. This year, an additional 40,000 crosses were produced, to supplement the 100,000 created at the beginning of the centenary period.

During the reporting period, a total of 4,335 inscribed crosses were sent to the embassies of Egypt, France, Ghana, Iran, Israel, Japan, Korea, Malta, Myanmar, Sweden, and Turkey. Crosses were also sent to a variety of countries for non-embassy related activity. Thirty went to the United States of America, and 600 to France.
Members of the Friends of the Memorial program attend an end-of-year function hosted by Dr Brendan Nelson. The function included a special tour of the exhibition A home on a southern hill, led by Memorial curator Margaret Farmer.
The Remembrance Day National Ceremony held on the Memorial Parade Ground and surrounds was attended by high-level dignitaries, diplomats, and students from each state and territory representing the youth of Australia. Australia’s Federation Guard and the Band of the Royal Military College, Duntroon were on parade.

PROGRAM COMPONENT 1.7
RESEARCH AND INFORMATION DISSEMINATION

assist Australians remember the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact on society.

The conduct and stimulation of historical research and dissemination of knowledge and understanding of Australia’s military history.

A wide range of research and dissemination activities was undertaken during the year, including the publication of military history books and articles, media broadcasts, individual research projects, family history workshops, website provision of digitised official and private records, and the provision of military history information and research assistance through the Research Centre enquiry service and the Military History Section.

The centenary of major events of the First World War on the Western Front has continued to generate unprecedented interest in the Memorial and its collections, commemorative activities, and stories of the Australian experience of war. The Memorial has assisted enquiries in record numbers, from people using the collections to trace their families’ military history through to those performing academic research, writing books, or producing documentary films and news media.

Official Histories: East Timor, Iraq, and Afghanistan

On 1 July 2016, the full team of 13 project members began work. By November they were security-cleared and operating within a purpose-built secure environment with appropriate physical and network security infrastructure. A governance structure was established to coordinate the contributions and flow of records from all stakeholder departments and agencies: Defence; Foreign Affairs and Trade; Prime Minister and Cabinet; the Australian Federal Police; the National Archives or Australia; and the six agencies of the Australian Intelligence Community.

Research for the six volumes of the official history series consists of two complimentary strands. The first is a comprehensive interviewing program. Around 350 interviews have been conducted, supplementing pre-existing interviews sourced from a range of stakeholder agencies. Successful research and interviewing visits have been conducted in Timor-Leste, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, and North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) Headquarters at The Hague. The NATO visit yielded not only valuable interviews, but a large trove of important documents. The second area of research for the volumes consists of an examination of documentary records from stakeholder agencies and departments. Though not without ongoing challenges, an adequate flow of documents from stakeholder departments has been instituted and is being closely monitored.

The most significant challenge faced to date has been establishing an adequate flow of corporate records from the Department of Defence, the project’s largest supplier, and records of crucial importance from the Australian Intelligence Community. This has caused delays, resulting in the project being three to four months behind schedule in its first year. With greater active support, it is expected that material will be received from these agencies in the near future.

Independent history of the medical legacies of the Vietnam War

An independent history of the medical legacies of the Vietnam War was commissioned by the Memorial Council and is being led by Dr Peter Yule, a research fellow at the School of Historical and Philosophical Studies at the University of Melbourne. Dr Yule will document and examine existing medical studies and research, and undertake new oral history interviews to enable the authoring of a broad history on the medical legacies of the Vietnam War.

During 2016–17 excellent progress has been made by Dr Yule and his assistant in researching a variety of records, including those from the Department of Defence, the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, and the Returned and Services League, as well as a large volume of secondary sources. Consultant epidemiologist, Dr Michael Fett, has made outstanding progress in summarising the scientific literature for the project, while the team of oral historians interviewed almost 100 Vietnam veterans. To date, three chapters of the book have been drafted.
Official history of Australian peacekeeping, humanitarian and post–Cold War operations

The Memorial continues to deliver the six-volume Official history of Australian peacekeeping, humanitarian and post–Cold War operations, assisted by funding from the Department of Defence.

Three volumes have previously been published by Cambridge University Press:

- Volume II Australia and the new world order: from peacekeeping to peace enforcement, 1988–1991, by David Horner, was published in 2011
- Volume III The good international citizen: Australian peacekeeping in Asia, Africa and Europe, 1991–1993, by David Horner and John Connor, was published in 2014

Three volumes are currently being finalised for publication as follows:

- Volume VI In their time of need: Australia’s overseas emergency relief operations, 1918–2006, by Memorial historian Steven Bullard has been published, and was launched by Professor the Hon Gareth Evans AC QC on 9 August 2017
- Volume I The long search for peace: observer missions and beyond, 1947–2006, by Peter Londey, Rhys Crawley, and David Horner, has been submitted to government departments and, subject to clearance, is expected to be published by mid-2018.

The annual Summer Scholars program

Scholars are selected through a competitive, merit-based selection process that is open to university students at a late stage of their history degrees – customarily honours graduates – and assigned individual research projects. Supervised by Memorial historians, three scholars successfully completed research projects related to the Memorial’s historical research, collections, exhibitions, and publications:

Nicole Townsend (Monash University) Road to ruin: Australians at the First Battle of El Alamein, July 1942

Emily Gallagher (The Australian National University) The rise and fall of Milne Bay: the battle of Milne Bay in Australia’s national narrative of the Second World War

Jaclyn Hopkins (La Trobe University) To mark the spot: Australian divisional memorials on the Western Front

The scholars delivered public presentations on their findings at the conclusion of the program and their research reports are published on the Memorial’s website.

Bryan Gandevia Prize

A generous bequest by the family and friends of the late Professor Bryan Gandevia in 2009 enabled the establishment of a prize to commemorate Professor Gandevia’s contribution to the development of Australian military and medical history. The Bryan Gandevia Prize of $5,000 is one of the most generous awards for postgraduate studies in Australian history. It is awarded biennially to an outstanding honours, masters, or doctoral thesis on a significant subject within Australian military history, military-medical history, or military-social history.

The 2016 Bryan Gandevia Prize, for theses submitted between 1 July 2014 and 30 June 2016, attracted a strong field of ten PhD and two honours history theses, all of high standard and worthy candidates for the award. The prize was judged by a panel of senior historians of the Australian War Memorial and a distinguished Emeritus Professor of Australian military, social, and political history. The adjudicators concurred in their judgment, unanimously recommending the award to Lieutenant David Woolley (Australian Army) for his thesis “Not yet diagnosed: Australian psychiatric casualties during the Kokoda campaign, 1942” (honours thesis, UNSW Canberra, 2015). Lieutenant Woolley delivered a public talk on his thesis at the Memorial on 29 June at which Professor Simon Gandevia presented the prize.

This work has made an outstanding contribution to understanding an important but little examined aspect of the Australian military experience. The Memorial is exploring opportunities to publish the work to ensure its wider dissemination.

Lieutenant Woolley is the third winner of the Bryan Gandevia Prize since its institution.

Australia’s involvement in post–Second World War Japanese war crimes trials

A major investigation into Australia’s involvement in post–Second World War Japanese war crimes trials, produced as a multi-volume law report series covering 310 trials (funded by an ARC grant in collaboration with the University of Melbourne), was published by Martinus Nijhoff in the Netherlands. A separate thematic volume on the historical and legal significance of the trials, Australia’s war crimes trials 1945–51, was launched by the Hon Sir Gerard Brennan AC KBE GBS at the Memorial on 29 November 2016.
As a centre for military history research, the Memorial proudly launched Bob Breen’s The good neighbour, the first published volume of the Official history of Australian peacekeeping, humanitarian and post-Cold War operations, and Dr Karl James’s Double Diamonds: Australian Commandos in the Pacific War, 1941-45. The Memorial’s annual history conference 1916 year of attrition was well attended; three students were welcomed into the Summer Scholars program; and David Woolley spoke about the work that lead him to be awarded the Bryan Gandevia Prize for Australian Military-Medical History.
The Memorial is honoured to host visiting veterans and hear their memories of service: veterans of the Korean War spoke with Michael Kelly, historian; former members of Bomber Command attended a special wreathlaying ceremony; and refurbished sculptures in the Commemorative Area were welcomed with a Smoking Ceremony.
Anzac connections

The Anzac connections project is adding new collections to the Memorial website by delivering linked data, biographies of service personnel, and transcriptions of collections through crowd-sourcing tools. Collections of First World War letters and diaries continue to be digitised and published on the website. The #Daily Digger project on Twitter continues to provide a daily narrative of the First World War, with quotes and images taken from digitised diaries and letters of men and women who served in the conflict. This year the Twitter project focused on the centenary of America entering the war on 6 April 1917. A series of quotes were selected to highlight relevant comments written by Australian soldiers at the time.

Beyond Allied histories: Dayak memories of World War II in Borneo

In partnership with the Australian National University this major three-year ARC-funded research project is providing new insight into how different groups of people experienced the Second World War in Borneo. The research team combines anthropological expertise from Associate Professor Christine Helliwell of the College of Arts and Social Sciences at ANU, with curatorial expertise from Robyn van Dyk, Head of the Research Centre at the Memorial. As well as a scholarly book and articles, the project will generate an exhibition, which will be opening on the Anzac Hall Mezzanine area on 18 March 2018. Stories will be based on items from the Memorial’s archive, including original letters and diaries, and research developed from the ARC linkage project, with an accompanying digitisation/web program to promote the archival collections in the online environment.

Family history

The Research Centre continues to offer a training program for researching family history. Workshops focus on how visitors can use the collections and services of the Australian War Memorial (and other institutional collections that relate to Australian military service) to discover their families’ military service stories. A regular program of family history talks and workshops has been held in the Reading Room, attracting small but consistent audiences.

Honour Rolls

A number of Roll of Honour and Commemorative Roll research projects were undertaken, including enhancements of data to commemorate the 50th anniversary of significant events during the Vietnam War; the 75th anniversary of the Kokoda campaign; and the commemoration of nurses who died following the fall of Singapore. Three names were approved for addition to the Roll of Honour. The Commemorative Roll has been expanded by the addition of eight names.

The centenary of the establishment of the Australian War Records Section

The anniversary of the inception of the Australian War Records Section (AWRS) was celebrated on 16 May 2017. In 1917, the AWRS began collecting the relics, artworks, photographs, and documents that would become the foundation of the Australian War Memorial. Without the work of the AWRS, Australia’s military history would have been collected by the British and recorded as a side note of the Imperial force. The opportunity to reflect upon and study our part in the global wars has helped build a sense of nationhood and identity. One hundred years on, the Memorial continues to collect, preserve, and commemorate the relics of the men and women who sacrifice themselves for our nation. The Memorial marked this anniversary on 16 May 2017 with a Last Post Ceremony commemorating Corporal Ernest Bailey, who died in the service of the AWRS. Wreaths were laid by the Memorial and on behalf of the descendants of Charles Bean and John Linton Treloar. A social media campaign featuring posts from Memorial curators discussing their favourite items from the collection drew attention to the AWRS centenary, and a number of Memorial exhibitions relating to the work of the AWRS, such as A good little chap and To heal the nation.

Copyright Amendment (Disability Access and Other Measures) Bill 2017

This year saw successful changes to the Copyright Act 1968 in the passing of the Copyright Amendment (Disability Access and Other Measures) Bill 2017. The new act introduces a standard term of protection for the life of the author plus 70 years, does not differentiate between published and unpublished works, and consolidates the exceptions, allowing libraries and archives (and other cultural institutions) to make copies of copyright material for preservation purposes. These changes to the act will result in significant efficiencies for the Memorial in digital preservation and assist in unlocking orphan works for broader public use.

PERFORMANCE TARGET

The number of visitors to the Research Centre’s Reading Room.

RESULT Met

The Memorial’s Research Centre continued to attract large numbers of visitors. 45,869 people visited the Reading Room during the period, approximately 12,000 more than in 2015–16, with 15,459 requests made for collection items.

The increase in visitors can be attributed to a number of factors: the Family History Area volunteers were relocated into the Reading Room from their previous space adjacent to the Conflicts 1945 to today galleries; and a number of researchers are working on projects associated with significant anniversaries in 2018, particularly the centenary of the Armistice in November 2018.

RESULT Met

A total of 15,549 collection items were requested by Reading Room clients this year, a decrease from 18,374 in 2015–16.

RESULT Met

Facilitating broad access to collections through the provision of digitised content is a high priority for the Memorial. Data clean-up has continued in 2016–17, creating cleaner and more accurate search results.

The Memorial’s online encyclopaedia continues to be a popular source of support for independent research by the public, as well as assisting staff answering frequently asked questions. Encyclopaedia pages received over 785,700 views during 2016–17. The single most viewed page was the Anzac biscuit recipe page, with a total of 24,727 views. The most heavily used pages are those relating to conscription in the Australian military, with 66,533 page views.

During 2016–17 Research Centre staff answered 12,753 enquiries made online, by telephone, email, or through the mail. Email and online enquiries are the most popular form of contact with figures that more than double those received by telephone and letter.

During 2016–17 Military History Section staff answered 3,004 research enquiries made online, by telephone, and via mail from the public and the media, and through the offices of the minister, prime minister, and other government agencies.

The annual Australian War Memorial conference.

The Memorial’s annual history conference, 1916: the cost of attrition, was held at the Memorial from 20 to 22 July 2017, and was an outstanding success. The conference marked the centenary of major events of the First World War in 1916 and was framed by two significant commemorations at the Memorial: the centenary of the battle of Fromelles on 19 July 1916, and the centenary of the battle of Pozières on 23 July 1916.

The conference attracted 184 registrations, with attendees from schools and historical societies, veterans, ex-service organisations, universities, and museums. Over 100 conference delegates attended the welcome reception kindly hosted by the Ambassador of France, His Excellency M. Christophe Lecourtier, at the French Embassy Residence on the evening of 19 July 2017.

The conference provided an absorbing program for a near-capacity audience, with a total of 18 speakers from the United Kingdom, Canada, New Zealand, and Australia.

Highlights of the conference included the opening keynote address by Dr Tim Cook from the Canadian War Museum, who delivered an illuminating and challenging talk on the parallel experiences of Australia and Canada in the Great War, and divergences in national and popular memories. Delegates who attended the conference dinner in Anzac Hall were engaged by an address, 1916: brothers in arms, by First World War historian and author Dr Peter Pedersen who linked events on the Western Front in 1916 to the solidarity of soldiers of the British Empire and shared memories during commemorations on the former battlefields in 2016.

The conference audience participated in question and answer sessions, and panel discussions produced some original and lively debate. The conference organisers received enthusiastic feedback from delegates and speakers, many of whom stated it was the best conference they had attended.

For the first time since the Memorial’s annual history conferences commenced in 1981, the conference was live-streamed online to encourage wider participation. The streaming reached some 300 unique viewers, with an average viewing duration of nearly 2.5 hours, most viewing more than one session at a time. Viewers were located in 17 cities across five countries.

Wartime magazine

Production of the Memorial’s popular military history magazine, Wartime, continued during 2016–17. Featuring high-quality, popular, and engaging articles written by Memorial staff and eminent historians from Australia, Britain, and the United States, the magazine continued the successful practice of themed issues, featuring: the Vietnam War, including personal accounts by Australian veterans (issue 75, winter 2016); Indigenous service, complementing the new exhibition For Country, for Nation (issue 76, spring 2016); the rise of the Axis powers in the Second World War in 1940 and survivors of the Holocaust (issue 77, summer 2017), coinciding with the Memorial’s new permanent exhibition The Holocaust: witnesses and survivors; and current and recent conflicts in the Middle East, (issue 78, autumn 2017).

Memorial staff have also published, edited, and contributed to the following publications:

- Australia’s war crimes trials 1945–51, edited by Professor Tim McCormack and Narelle Morris of University of Melbourne under ARC Linkage Grant with the Memorial, published by Martinus Nijhoff, Netherlands, in November 2016
- Comradeship: stories of friendship and recreation in wartime, by Kathleen Cusack, published by Department of Veterans’ Affairs, May 2017
- Kokoda: beyond the legend, edited by Karl James, published by Cambridge University Press in April 2017
- A place to remember, the Australian War Memorial’s souvenir publication, revised edition 2017

High quality and suitable public facilities such as restrooms, café, and way-finding signs.

RESULT

The Memorial is safe and well-presented, with appropriate public facilities including restrooms, a first aid room, and parents’ rooms.

During 2016–17, the Memorial and its contracted catering company Create Consultants undertook a series of staff and visitor surveys to determine the level of satisfaction with the overall catering experience, with particular focus on coffee. In response to the feedback provided, Create Consultants is proud to now partner with local Canberra coffee company ONA. Founder of ONA and 2015 World Barista Champion Sasa Sestic and his team have worked closely with Create staff at Poppy’s and The Landing Place cafés to develop a team of skilled and passionate baristas to bring an excellent coffee experience to the Memorial.

Further enhancements are planned for external signage to assist visitor with way-finding and outline conditions of entry.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

The Council of the Australian War Memorial provides a strategic framework of policy and direction that guides the achievement of the Memorial’s outcome.

In accordance with its planned schedule, Council and the Finance, Audit, and Compliance Committee each met four times during the year. The Remuneration Committee and the Roll of Honour Committee each met once.

The Chair of Council and the Director of the Memorial provided a briefing to the Minister for Veterans’ Affairs after each meeting. The Memorial’s senior management team met with senior representatives of the Department of Veterans’ Affairs to discuss matters relevant to both parties.

Through the process of Council and committee meetings, detailed papers and recommendations were presented by the Memorial’s management. The major considerations and decisions undertaken by Council related to:

• a program of events for the end of the centenary of the First World War
• progress in relation to the Official history of Australian peacekeeping, humanitarian, and post–Cold War operations, the Official histories of East Timor, Iraq and Afghanistan, and the Independent history of the medical legacies of the Vietnam War
• progress of the Spirit of Anzac Centenary Experience
• further development of a Memorial Master Plan, including implementation of long-term storage solutions for the National Collection
• development and implementation of a new branding position for the Memorial
• implementation of a Digital Experience Framework and strategy.

PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) continued as the Memorial’s internal auditor. Members of the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) and PwC attended each of the Finance, Audit, and Compliance Committee meetings. A program of audits was approved by Council for the 2016–17 financial year and the outcomes of reviews undertaken were presented at each meeting.

PROGRAM COMPONENT 1.10
EXECUTIVE STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT

Effective leadership and management of the Memorial in accordance with the requirements of the Australian War Memorial Act 1980.

EXECUTIVE LEADERSHIP

The Memorial’s executive leadership and management framework includes a Corporate Management Group (CMG), consisting of the Director and three assistant directors; and a Senior Management Group (SMG) comprising all section heads and members of the CMG.

During this past year, there were a number of important changes to SMG. Kristy Gosang commenced as acting Head of Finance on 29 August 2016, and Stephen Kay commenced as Head of Information Technology on 12 December 2016. Ms Gosang elected not to continue her contract with the Memorial, and Mr Chris Chapman, the Memorial’s Manager Budgets and Financial Policy, has again stepped into the role of acting Head of Finance while the recruitment process is completed.

The substantive Assistant Director of Corporate Services (ADCS), Ms Rhonda Adler, formally retired from her position in June 2017. Ms Leanne Patterson, who has been acting ADCS since 11 January 2016 while maintaining her responsibilities as Chief Finance Officer (CFO), has continued in role for the reporting period. At the time of preparing this report, a formal recruitment process was underway, the results of which will be reported in the 2017–18 Annual Report.

The CMG meets weekly and considers a wide range of matters brought forward by its members or via papers from section heads. Quarterly reports are presented to monitor the Memorial’s performance against a range of criteria. The CFO presents a set of financial statements on a regular basis and is able to provide direct advice to senior management. A corporate reserve was established to provide additional resources to deliver and support programs associated with the centenary period and other key commemorative activities. Funding from the general appropriation has been quarantined for this purpose.

The SMG meets weekly and is a forum for the exchange of information and discussion of corporate issues. Feedback from CMG and SMG meetings is provided to staff through weekly section meetings.

In addition to weekly CMG meetings, a number of Project Control Groups (PCG) met on a monthly basis to monitor the performance of major projects. The focus of PCGs is to ensure projects are delivered according to their objectives, timeframes, and budgets.

STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT

The Memorial’s strategic planning framework encourages participation by all staff, promoting the concept of one team working to achieve common goals and recognising the importance of communication and ownership of decisions. Annual business plans and accompanying budgets are developed to support Council directions and corporate plan priorities. Once developed, annual business plans influence
The Memorial’s activities could not be achieved without the dedication of staff and volunteers. The Voluntary Guides of the Australian War Memorial celebrated their 40th anniversary at a function in Anzac Hall. The Director, members of staff, and supporters took part in the 22 Pushup Challenge as part of a worldwide social media campaign marking the tragedy of suicide amongst the veteran community.

The Vietnam Veterans Motorcycle Club stood proudly on the forecourt of the Memorial during their visit. day-to-day operations. Achievements are monitored and reported quarterly to CMG and Council.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND BUSINESS CONTINUITY PLANNING

Fraud risk

The Commonwealth Fraud Control Framework outlines the Australian Government’s requirements for fraud control, including that government entities put in place a comprehensive fraud control program that covers prevention, detection, investigation, and reporting strategies. In January 2017 the Memorial undertook its triennial re-assessment of its fraud control framework. The resulting report and plan identified:

- no risks above moderate
- seven moderate risks
- seven low risks
- five very low risks

Risks rated moderate to very low are managed within existing resources and are monitored and reported as part of the Memorials existing quarterly risk management framework.

Business risk

In October 2016 the Memorial undertook its triennial Business Risk Assessment. Senior management, with the assistance of PricewaterhouseCoopers, undertook a comprehensive analysis of the threats to the Memorial’s ability to meet its objectives, and identified appropriate controls and mitigation strategies.

Management of these key business risks have been incorporated into corporate and annual business planning processes. Progress against the proposed actions to address the high and significant risks are monitored by senior management and reported quarterly to Council.

Risk benchmarking

Each year the Memorial participates in Comcover’s annual risk management benchmarking survey, which provides a basis to measure our performance against similar government agencies and identifies areas for possible improvement.

In the March 2016 survey, the Memorial achieved an overall risk maturity rating of “integrated”, which aligned with the results of the majority of Commonwealth agencies. The report also highlighted areas of potential improvement in the Memorial’s overall risk management framework.

In response, the existing risk management framework was reviewed and enhanced to incorporate current best-practice and risk management methodologies. A revised Director’s Instruction was developed to consolidate various risk-related policies and documentation, and to inform staff of the organisation’s underpinning appetite and tolerance in relation to the range of business risks.

The results from the March 2017 survey, shows significant improvement in the Memorial’s overall rating, moving from “integrated” to “advanced” as a result of the work undertaken since the 2016 survey.

Evaluation and visitor research

This year Evaluation and Visitor Research section completed a revision of the Memorial’s domestic audience segmentation profile. Last undertaken in 2003, the psychographic study examines the existing and potential general public audience according to values, attitudes, and motivations. It provides an integrating framework for demographic and qualitative information collection in-house by the Memorial. Roy Morgan Research was engaged to perform this year’s study. The study utilised focus groups, on-site exit surveying, a large online national survey, and current and retrospective profiling of the Memorial’s exit surveys according to their proprietary profiling systems. The updated audience profile will be used to ensure that varying audience types are considered and targeted effectively through the variety of programs provided by the Memorial.

The General Visitor Survey was conducted again in 2017. This year 725 respondents completed the survey as they exited the Memorial. The results set the benchmarking information used throughout this report.

The section maintained its standard audience research priorities relating to café catering customer service survey; Big things in store; and exhibition evaluations. Summative surveys were concluded for the Mephisto: the devil's chariot temporary display and Reality in flames: modern Australian art and the Second World War special exhibition. A concept exploration survey was conducted for an exhibition on the consequences of war to inform the project team of visitor understanding and interests. The For Country, for Nation special exhibition exit survey commenced and is in progress for the duration of the exhibition.

The combination of in-house studies and the external segmentation profile will help the Memorial to build on its strengths and overcome barriers to visitor engagement in the post centenary period.
INTERNAL OUTPUT

RESOURCES MANAGEMENT

Management of the Memorial’s buildings and grounds, and its financial, human, and general service resources to the best advantage of external outputs.

BUILDINGS AND SERVICES

Buildings

Energy management continues to be a priority for the Memorial, and technical initiatives have maintained efficient energy consumption on the site. The refinement of strategy for building climate control continues, with an emphasis on managing temperature and humidity parameters to meet the needs of collection material and energy efficiency. The Memorial partnered with ACTEW to conduct monitoring of the Building Management Control Systems in all buildings, with monthly performance reports on performance providing focus on maintenance and repair work for critical systems that are not operating as efficiently as their design and specifications allow. This project saw improved controls and collection storage conditions and highlighted several capital control upgrades required to provide ongoing energy savings. Replacement of fluorescent and conventional lighting with energy efficient bulbs and LED technologies was undertaken in the Campbell and Mitchell precincts, including a full upgrade to the Treloar C workshop high bay lighting, which is expected to produce additional savings and increased lighting levels.

The next stage of the Mitchell Site Development Plan to determine long-term site development and corporate storage priorities for the Memorial’s future growth and acquisitions has progressed. The concept design for the first stage large technology object storage building is well underway. The Memorial’s Mitchell properties comprise land belonging to both the Australian Capital Territory and the Commonwealth, and discussions are underway to resolve any potential title issues which may impact the long-term redevelopment plans of the site.

Major accommodation projects have been undertaken in Campbell and Mitchell. The design and construction of new secure office space to accommodate the official histories project was completed on the Campbell site, with staff relocated into the new accommodation from early December 2016.

Several other projects were completed, including a new concrete path adjacent bus drop off on the east road, installation of a platform in the Commemorative Area to allow disabled access, and the upgrade to current standards of the Administration Building lift.

Grounds

Grounds maintenance contracts are managed to ensure outstanding grounds presentation at all times. Detailed grounds maintenance and horticulture contracts are managed separately to ensure professional services are delivered. A specialist gardener is contracted for garden maintenance of the Commemorative Area, Eastern Precinct, and memorials and sculptures throughout the Western Precinct, to ensure these locations are presented at a high standard.

Additional underground electrical infrastructure for Anzac Day and Remembrance Day ceremonies was installed to improve the Memorial’s ability to support audio-visual presentations and broadcast media involvement in on-site events. This work has reduced the potential risk to staff and visitors from accidents due to cables across roads and pathways.

A regular maintenance regime for the Lone Pine tree (Pinus halepensis) continues to assist with its longevity, a replacement pine, grown from a seed taken from the original Lone Pine tree, was planted by Their Royal Highnesses The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge on Anzac Day 2014. It is anticipated that this tree will have grown to a suitable size when the original Lone Pine reaches senescence. The new tree is in a healthy state, and this is assisted by the fence and bird netting.

The official opening and dedication of the Flanders Memorial Garden occurred in May and a new bronze dog water bowl was added to the explosive detection dogs’ memorial, Elevation of the senses, in the Eastern Precinct.

A major upgrade of the plantings around the Memorial’s Administration Building was completed in early 2017, including rabbit-proofing of the garden bed and the rectification of concrete plinths around the building’s façade.

Planning for additional footpath behind Anzac Hall is underway to assist school group access, reduce slip hazards, and decrease the red gravel wash-off onto roads and into drains during heavy rain.

Security

Regular security risk reviews are undertaken to ensure a strengthened focus on Memorial security arrangements.

Liaison with the Australian Federal Police (AFP) occurs for all high-profile visits and events. There is a particularly positive relationship with AFP (ACT Policing) for liaison, coordination, and the AFP’s role in the Memorial’s high-profile events and ceremonies such as Anzac Day and Remembrance Day.
Site vehicle access mitigation strategies and planning is underway in line with the Site Development Plan to include controls such as vehicle bollards and boulders.

The upgrade of electronic security infrastructure continues. This includes closed circuit television (CCTV) and site lighting enhancements throughout the Memorial grounds. Proliferation of CCTV throughout the galleries and Memorial buildings continues.

New baggage inspection and cloaking arrangements were introduced in May 2016. Inspections are conducted by security staff with a focus on the Main Building public entry points. The Emergency Planning Committee (EPC) met four times during 2016–17. Planning and conducting emergency evacuation drills for all Memorial buildings has continued, with improvements identified and implemented.

Workshop services

The Memorial’s workshop supports a wide range of Memorial activities. Work this year included trades support for the For Country, for Nation, Home on a southern hill and The deceiving eye exhibits. Workshop staff were also responsible for the design and creation of the ceremonial soil boxes used in the dedication ceremony of the Flanders Memorial Garden, with the soil box for each state and territory of Australia made from timbers indigenous to that area. Each soil box was hand-crafted by our highly-skilled team of tradesmen. The Memorial’s Workshop provides technical trades-based support and advice to all sections of the Memorial. The Workshop is also responsible for a wide range of building works, preparations for ceremonies, gallery maintenance, furniture construction, the installation of commemorative plaques and signage, and general building and grounds maintenance works.

Records management

Mail Room duties include records management, retrieval and rehousing of physical paper files, and the scanning of incoming mail.

A review of records management processes and security risks has identified an opportunity to further centralise scanning of incoming mail.

Mailroom and loading dock security is an ongoing focus, particularly in relation to potential security threats arising from incoming mail and deliveries. Development and review of mailroom policies and procedures ensures best practice mail tracking and receipt, while addressing security requirements.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

Corporate systems

The Information Technology (IT) section supports a broad range of information and communication technology-based systems underpinning operations such as administration; collection management; public access; gallery information and experience; retail; and online services. There is an excellent record of systems availability, achieved through dedicated attention to systems monitoring and timely, well-planned upgrades.

Significant application and database changes were implemented for the Memorial website redevelopment project. This included a re-architecture of media storage to improve accessibility and maintenance, and a significant increase in data to improve search functionality.

Continued support was provided for a number of initiatives associated with the centenary of the First World War, particularly in relation to the Last Post Ceremony, the Roll of Honour name projections, and Roll of Honour soundscapes.

The year saw the conclusion of a project to upgrade the Digital Asset Management System (DAMS). The DAMS solution is a centralised repository for archival quality storage of digitised collection materials. The upgrade included the implementation of an out-of-the-box web client which reduced reliance on complex system customisations. Subsequent work has expanded the capability of the DAMS and introduced additional automated workflows to share information with the collection management system.

The SharePoint-based electronic documents management system continues to support corporate information management and recordkeeping requirements. The system was further enhanced with additional workflows to transform paper-based approvals to digital processes to achieve organisational efficiencies and meet the implementation targets identified in the government’s “Digital Continuity 2020 Plan”.

The retail system used by the Memorial’s shop was upgraded. This included enhancements to the portable till, stocktake tools, and an upgrade of shop computers.

The IT service management application was upgraded in order to maintain vendor support, technical currency, and integration compatibility. The upgrade enabled better system performance, reliability, and scalability.

The section continues the upgrade and development of solutions to support management of the National Collection. These solutions support information management and enhance preservation, conservation and curatorial tasks, which enables the Memorial to make the collection and information accessible to the public.
IT infrastructure

The Information Technology section develops and maintains an in-house IT platform which supports its systems, including those referred to above. In addition to meeting the workload generated by the implementation or upgrade of system application projects, the infrastructure team also achieved the following:

- Establishment of a security certified network and solution to support the IT requirements for the writing of the official history volumes relating to Australia’s involvement in the conflicts of Iraq, Afghanistan, and East Timor.
- Upgrade of hardware for recording and live streaming of the daily Last Post Ceremony. The new hardware provides a simplified solution with increased resilience.
- Expansion of storage infrastructure to support the increasing needs of the Digital Asset Management System. The infrastructure provides scalability, simplicity, efficiency, and security.
- Replacement of corporate printers and multi-function devices. The new equipment includes advanced functions to enable secure printing, help people work more efficiently, and reduce paper waste.
- The fleet of old laptop computers were replaced and included a Windows 10-based system, delivering performance improvements, increased security, and resource efficiencies.
- An upgrade to the desk phone system and backend servers, and implementation of a disaster recovery procedure.
- Implementation of a diverse path for internet connectivity and upgraded to a high-availability infrastructure. This was following a review of our current internet infrastructure, and possible supply route changes for the Light Rail Project.

Strategic planning and governance

The Information Management Steering Group (IMSG) continues its oversight of information management, and IT strategy and policy.

The Chief Information Officer (CIO) has represented the Memorial at meetings of the whole-of-government CIO forum and the Commonwealth Managers Forum on IT.

FINANCE

Financial planning and monitoring

The Memorial has a well-established internal budget development and management process which ensures corporate priorities are funded to an appropriate level. Many new projects and activities related to the centenary of the First World War were funded from an internal reserve, with potential allocations forecast over several years to ensure adequate resourcing during the centenary period 2014–18.

Funding strategies were also developed for a range of capital projects planned over the next ten years, including National Collection storage, gallery refurbishments, building works, site development, software upgrades, and IT hardware replacement.

Regular financial reporting to senior management, Council, and the Department of Finance throughout the year included Memorial-wide financial results, budget review and analysis, cash balance reporting, capital management planning, and commercial operations.

Financial policy

The Head of Finance and the Chief Finance Officer (CFO) continued to participate in the development of whole-of-government reforms through developing input to key discussion papers and consultation processes, including review of valuation methodology for heritage and cultural assets.

The CFO was also involved in activities to ensure that funding strategies for major projects and programs are achieved, including resource planning and forecasting for projects associated with collection development and long-term accommodation and storage needs.

HUMAN RESOURCES

Strategic people management/workforce planning

The Memorial has identified the following strategic workforce priorities:

- alignment of people and our business through positive performance culture
- promoting organisational health and wellbeing
- building leadership and management capability
- attracting and retaining the right people
- encouraging innovation and agility.

Workforce planning continues to evolve within the Memorial to build and sustain a diverse workforce. This will deliver current and future business objectives and provide greater opportunity to attract, develop, and retain skilled, engaged, and committed employees. Critical capability gaps are being identified to enable the development of tailored strategies to assist in mitigating future workforce risk. This will lead to greater linkages and alignment with business to achieve the Memorial’s strategic objectives.

Workforce development

The Memorial fosters a culture of professional development and continuous learning in building capability, capacity, and bench strength for the future.

Initiatives for 2017 included the continuation of:

- a Leadership Development Program for leaders at the APS5–EL1 levels. The program provides leaders with a common language and understanding in fostering a culture of high performance and of staff being more fully engaged. The cohort structure of representatives from each business section supports networking and cross collaboration.

- “Learnhub”, the Memorial’s online e-learning program where all staff can participate in a diverse range of training by participating in or registering to attend in-house face-to-face training.

- specialist training programs, conferences and seminars continue to be a hallmark of the annual Learning and Development Plan in supporting the development of the range of expertise required within the Memorial.

- accreditations provide currency in licensing and skills required for the job.

- the Memorial’s Studies Assistance Scheme continues to provide support to staff enabling them to undertake formal qualifications relevant to their expertise and career progression.

People management and services

Work is currently underway on improving and simplifying the annual performance assessment process, with focus on embedding regular feedback between staff and managers.

The Workplace Relations Committee met regularly throughout the year and continues to be an important forum for staff consultation and policy development.

Enterprise bargaining concluded in May 2017 with the majority of staff supporting a new agreement for approval by the Fair Work Commission in June 2017.

The Memorial Security Team was presented with certificates in Government Security by senior members of the Attorney General’s Department.
STAFFING OVERVIEW

Following is an overview of the metrics of the staff at the Memorial, as at 30 June 2017.

The staff of the Memorial are appointed or employed under the Public Service Act 1999.

INTERNAL OUTPUT

REVENUE GENERATION

Generation of revenue in support of the Memorial’s mission and purpose.

MEMORIAL SHOP

Memorial Shop revenue was $2,072,158 in 2016–17 against a target of $1,855,488. Net profit was $492,798, compared to last year’s $454,265, before notional overhead costs.

Wage to sales, a key metric of retail performance, finished this year at 27 per cent, compared to 31 per cent in the previous year. Cost of goods finished flat on last year. Combined transactional activity for the shop and Orientation Gallery totalled 116,943, with the shop’s average sale decreasing $0.57 to $20.62, driven by an increase in sales of lower-priced items. Net operating profit percentage finished at 24 per cent, compared to 21 per cent in the previous year. This was achieved by benchmarking the shop’s operations to external retailers, training staff in retail metrics, and changing the supply chain to more economical suppliers.

The majority of sales were merchandise developed by the Memorial and items produced under license with other suppliers, including the Royal Australian Mint and Australia Post. The centenary range included:

- 2017 medallion featuring a prominent image of troops on the Western Front
- limited edition Digger bear
- circulating and non-circulating coins commemorating key events in Australian military history
- apparel and souvenir products featuring the Memorial’s centenary logo.

The Memorial expanded on its core range of products around the military services, poppy range, and educational items for school groups.

The Memorial launched a number of publications, including The Good neighbour: Australian peace support operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006 by Bob Breen, One woman’s war and peace by Sharon Bown, Fighting monsters by Richard Braithwaite, High in the sunlit silence by Tony Vine, and Secret code-breakers of central bureau: how Australia’s signals-intelligence network helped win the Pacific war by David Dufty. Memorial souvenir publications sold through the Orientation Gallery and Memorial Shop, including an updated A place to remember, Hall of Memory, and Australian War Memorial guide book, all sold well.

E-BUSINESS

The Memorial’s e-business revenue for 2016–17 was $1,029,570 (including the value of waivers and stock received free of charge) against a target of $1,072,497. Revenue is generated from:

- costs associated with reproductions from the National Collection
- user fees associated with commercial use of the material
- the value of fees waived for use of materials for educational, private, or commemorative purposes
- Memorial Shop products sold online.

BEQUESTS AND PARTNERSHIPS

The Memorial, like most cultural institutions, supplements its government budget allocation with partnership and fundraising programs. These programs aim to assist the Memorial to engage in new and innovative approaches to telling the stories of those who have served our nation.

During this reporting period, the Memorial sought support to deliver a number of new and existing activities, publications, and exhibitions. To assist in this process, the Memorial has launched a focused, strategic program of partnership and fundraising activity, the Giving Campaign, focused on bequests and major gifts.

During the reporting period, the Memorial generated $13,018,049 in partnerships, major donations, and bequests.

The Australian War Memorial gratefully acknowledges the generous support of the following organisations, families and individuals, without whom much of our work could not be achieved:

- ActewAGL
- Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Ltd
- Australia Remembers – ACT Committee
- Australian Capital Territory Government
- Australian Submarine Corporation
- The Australian Women’s Weekly
- Aviation Art
- BAE Systems Australia
- Sir James Balderstone AC
- The Balgownie War Memorial Fund
- Bearcage Productions
- Dame Beryl Beaurepaire AC DBE and the late Mr Ian Beaurepaire CMG
- BHP Billiton Sustainable Communities
- Estate of the late James Frederick Blythe
- Boeing Australia
- Burmah Castrol
- Casinos Australia International
INTERNAL OUTPUT

PROGRAM COMPONENT 1.13
TEAM MANAGEMENT

Sections/teams are managed and administered to achieve Memorial outputs and foster equity, teamwork, and open communication.

This is a common output that recognises the importance of promoting teamwork to achieve corporate priorities. The Performance Assessment Framework is a key strategy for ensuring individual work plans are aligned with the Memorial’s business plan.

This year saw the introduction of the Memorial’s staff rewards and recognition program. Each month all staff are invited to nominate individuals or teams for their outstanding efforts and contribution. Each branch’s achievements are recognised in each work group and shared with staff through regular updates.

Regular senior management and section meetings continue to provide vehicles for effective communication across the Memorial. All-staff meetings are held periodically to provide updates from senior management on key strategic issues and major project developments. Specialist committees such as Workplace Relations; Work Health and Safety; Exhibition Planning; Emergency Planning and Evacuation; and Environment and Energy are essential forums for addressing cross-branch matters of importance.

The Memorial’s Employee Assistance Program, which provides counselling and support to staff and their immediate families, was accessed by a small number of staff. The majority of matters referred to this service continue to be of a non-work related nature.

One indicator of the effectiveness of teamwork at the Memorial is the willingness of staff to contribute to major events such as Anzac Day and Remembrance Day on a voluntary basis. The involvement of staff is fundamental to the success of those events. This cross-organisational support is good for building teamwork across all areas of the Memorial.

The German tank “Mephisto” leaves Anzac Hall after two years at the Australian War Memorial. The Memorial’s successful collaboration with the Queensland Museum involved the cooperation of team members from throughout the Memorial.
The Menin Gate Lions, originally given to Australia in 1936, returned to stand on the bridge in front of the Menin Gate as part of First World War centenary commemorations.
ENABLING LEGISLATION
The Australian War Memorial is established as a corporation by the Australian War Memorial Act 1980 (the Act). The Memorial’s functions and powers, its ministerial oversight, and the role and functions of its Council, Chair, and Director are outlined in the Act.

FUNCTIONS AND POWERS OF THE MEMORIAL
The functions and powers of the Memorial are detailed in sections 5 and 6, respectively, of the Act and provide the framework around which the Memorial undertakes its core functions of commemoration, education, and research. As the custodian of Australia’s military history, the Memorial works to maintain a place for solemn reflection; develop, maintain and exhibit a collection of historically significant material; provide an authoritative reference facility; conduct, disseminate and assist with research into Australia’s military history.

EFFECTS OF MINISTERIAL DIRECTIONS
Under section 22 of the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013, Council must ensure that the Memorial complies with the Government Policy Order to the extent that the Order applies to the authority. There are no General Policy Orders currently in effect.

RESPONSIBLE MINISTER
The Minister for Veterans’ Affairs has portfolio responsibility for the Memorial. The Honourable Dan Tehan was the minister responsible for the Memorial for 2016–17. During the reporting period, Minister Tehan held the following concurrent portfolio responsibilities:

- Minister for Veterans’ Affairs
- Minister Assisting the Prime Minister for the Centenary of Anzac
- Minister Assisting the Prime Minister for Cyber Security
- Minister for Defence Personnel.

INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AUDITS
Internal audit
The Memorial’s internal audit services are outsourced to PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC). The Internal Audit Plan 2016–17 was approved by Council in May 2016 and work was completed as follows:

- Review of e-business product costing and pricing model
- Review of the 2017–20 Business Risk Assessment
- Review of 2017–20 Fraud Risk Assessment and Fraud Control Plan
- Review of 2017–20 Strategic Internal Audit Plan

No major concerns or weaknesses were identified. Minor recommended actions have been addressed or incorporated into the 2017–18 Business Plan.
External audit
The audit of the 2016–17 financial statements was undertaken by Ernst & Young on behalf of the ANAO and resulted in a favourable report and unqualified audit opinion. The ANAO audit opinion for the Memorial’s 2016–17 financial statements is at page 102.

INDEMNITIES AND INSURANCE PREMIUMS
The property insurance premium for 2016–17 was $335,376 (excluding GST), an increase of $13,567 or 4.3 per cent on the 2015–16 premium of $321,809. The slight increase is mainly due to increased cover over property and the National Collection. The policy provided comprehensive cover for the National Collection and property, and general liability (including professional indemnity), with premiums of $162,236 and $167,809 respectively. The policy also provides motor vehicle coverage for those vehicles not covered by government fleet insurance, and insurance for overseas travellers. Council members are provided with indemnity insurance through directors’ and officers’ liability cover.

LEGAL ACTIONS
There were no legal actions taken against the Memorial during 2016–17.

OMBUDSMAN
No issues were referred to the Commonwealth Ombudsman during 2016–17.

SOCIAL JUSTICE AND EQUITY
The Memorial is committed to social justice and equity, and aims to provide a high level of public access to its physical grounds, commemorative ceremonies, and public programs. The Memorial undertakes regular research to ensure it is informed of the changing needs of its diverse national and international audience.

The Memorial identifies specific needs through visitor research and evaluation and regularly surveys visitors to identify and monitor how well needs are being met. Results for 2016–17 indicate:

- About 4 per cent of the Memorial’s general visitors have a disability
- Among the visitors who rated facilities and services for people with disabilities, the following proportions gave a rating of satisfied or very satisfied:
  - 96 per cent – mobility-impaired access into the building
  - 97 per cent – mobility-impaired access within galleries and between floors
  - 89 per cent – accessible toilets
  - 85 per cent – free wheelchairs and walkers
  - 83 per cent – mobility-impaired parking.
- The percentage of Australian visitors identifying as Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander (3 per cent of the Australian population) was just under 1 per cent.  Indigenous Australians were just as satisfied (100 per cent satisfaction rating) by their visit to the Memorial as non-Indigenous Australians (99.8 per cent satisfaction rating).

- Almost 34 per cent of Australian visitors were born overseas, representing a higher proportion than that found in the Australian population (26 per cent). Satisfaction levels remained equal overall, although overseas-born visitors were less likely to be very satisfied than Australian born visitors.

- About 19 per cent of Australian visitors speak a language other than English at home (down 1 per cent), a lower percentage than that found in the Australian population (21 per cent). Those Australians who spoke solely English at home were more likely to be very satisfied (89 per cent) with their visit than those visitors who spoke another language at home (75 per cent).

ADVERTISING AND MARKET RESEARCH EXPENDITURE

In accordance with section 311A of the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918, the following is a summary of amounts paid by the Memorial to advertising agencies, market research organisations, and media advertising organisations. As required, particulars of payments of less than $13,000 have not been included. The Memorial did not pay for the services of any polling or direct mail organisations.

The following table shows all monies paid for general advertising in the 2016–17 financial year.

of the Memorial's buildings and operations. The Memorial does not administer any legislation or have any appropriation directly related to the principles of environmental sustainability and development.

Energy consumption

Monitoring of the energy produced by the Memorial is conducted by the Building and Services section and reported quarterly to the Energy and Environment Committee.

Consumption of electricity and gas is monitored closely and remains close to trend. The refinement of the control strategy for building climate control continues, with an emphasis on managing temperature and humidity parameters to efficiently achieve material conservation and energy efficiency needs.

The Memorial partnered with ACTEW to conduct monitoring of the Building Management Control Systems in all buildings, with monthly performance reports providing focus on maintenance and repair work for critical systems that are not operating as efficiently as their design and specifications allow. This project saw improved controls and collection storage conditions and highlighted several capital control upgrades required to provide ongoing energy savings.

Building refurbishments and enhanced external lighting upgrades conducted in 2016–17 have included the installation of LED light technologies which provide electricity and maintenance savings to the Memorial while enhancing safety. The replacement of the original mercury vapour high bay lights with LED lighting in the Memorial’s Mitchell workshop has improved the light levels for sensitive restoration works, and will achieve a reduction in energy usage by more than 50 per cent.

Water management

Water consumption is monitored closely and any anomalies are promptly investigated and addressed.

The Memorial is committed to continual lifecycle improvement for irrigation infrastructure utilising the latest technology to control and monitor consumption. The Memorial proactively manages the watering of gardens and grounds by scheduling irrigation according to seasonal changes and rainfall.

Water saving measures are implemented for new building infrastructure, for example, improved irrigation control systems with leak detection and rain shut-off sensors; and upgrading to more efficient air-conditioning equipment including chillers, cooling towers, and humidifiers. Such measures water consumption and contribute to environmental sustainability.

Waste management

Waste management is reported to address and target waste awareness. The Memorial uses dedicated waste streams, comingled recycling, cardboard, classified, and general waste to reduce landfill. The introduction of follow-me-printing on all printers during the reporting period has led to quantifiable savings. Recycling of small cell batteries is ongoing at the Campbell and Mitchell sites, further extending the Memorial’s commitment to being environmentally responsible.

Wherever possible, the Memorial is committed to recycling waste produced from its sites. Non-general waste such as chemicals, paints, and solvents, are managed and disposed of appropriately by licenced service providers.

Heritage management

The Memorial’s endorsed Heritage Management Plan guides management of the Memorial’s heritage precinct. When required, heritage specialists provide advice regarding proposed building works in heritage-sensitive areas.

Bird-deterrent installations around the Main Building continue to be refined and assessed for effectiveness.

Maintenance of the Memorial building fabric is ongoing, including minor repairs to stonework and the implementation of a regular stonework-cleaning regime.

Other general heritage conservation activities include regular conservation and cleaning of key sculptural elements. Before Anzac Day a major clean of sculptures and plinths was undertaken, the stonework in the Commemorative Area was re-grouted, and Parade Ground steps were cleaned.

Improvements to the way-finding and presentation of the Commemorative Roll were completed late 2016.

In order to assist with its longevity, regular maintenance of the Lone Pine tree (Pinus halepensis) continues. The new Lone Pine tree, planted by Their Royal Highnesses The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge on Anzac Day 2014, remains in a healthy state, assisted by fencing and bird netting. The new tree has already outgrown the original bird netting framework which will be enhanced next year as the tree grows. It is anticipated that this tree will have developed significantly when the original tree reaches senescence.

WORKPLACE HEALTH AND SAFETY

The Memorial is committed to safeguarding the health and safety of its employees, workers, and visitors by providing and maintaining a safe working environment. The Memorial aims to eliminate all preventable work-related injuries and illnesses through systematic risk management. The Memorial is committed to supporting and promoting the holistic wellbeing of its employees.

The Memorial’s work health and safety (WHS) function is managed through Human Resources, with assistance from a WHS Manager and WHS Advisor who provide advice to the WHS committee, assist with hazard and incident investigations and case management, and provide relevant training.

This year the Memorial’s workers compensation premium has seen a 31.7 per cent reduction. Factors driving this include early intervention programs, reduced claim numbers and costs, and the improved overall performance of the Comcare scheme.

During the year, the Memorial’s Rehabilitation Management System (RMS) was audited by Comcare. Areas for improvement are integrated into the annual Early Intervention, Rehabilitation and Workers Compensation Plan.

In accordance with Schedule 2, Part 4 of the Work Health and Safety Act 2011 (WHS Act), the Memorial is required to provide details of the following matters in its annual report:

Initiatives and programs

A range of WHS initiatives and programs were conducted in the reporting period, including:

- introduction of hazard labelling for the National Collection, enabling staff to identify the hazard profile of items and implement appropriate safe handling controls
- continued growth of online information resources to help staff understand their responsibilities under the WHS Act, including child safety, electrical safety, inspection programs, and hazardous materials management
- providing staff with appropriate training to support visitor emotion and distress
- fostering a happy, healthy, and resilient workforce with delivery of a “creating a positive workplace culture” seminar for staff
- significant uptake of voluntary flu vaccination programs for staff and volunteers
- promotion of the Employment Assistance Program
- implementation of a Domestic and Family Violence awareness policy to support staff
- a Comcare briefing to Senior Management to explain premium results and enhance understanding of factors driving performance and trends
- implementation of staff training workshops related to chemical handling and risk management, weapons handling, and disaster recovery for the National Collection.

The Work Health and Safety Committee meets four times per year and assists the Memorial in developing, implementing, and reviewing measures designed to protect the health and safety of workers and visitors. The committee is made up of worker and management representatives, and provides a key consultation mechanism in accordance with relevant legislation.

First aid officers are located throughout the Memorial buildings to ensure immediate assistance is available when required. Emergency response support includes cardiac defibrillators being available at both the Campbell and Mitchell sites.

The Memorial has a zero tolerance approach to bullying and harassment, and has a number of contacts available should an employee or manager require advice regarding an instance of bullying or harassment. Contacts include trained HR professionals, harassment contact officers across all business areas, and the Employee Assistance Program. The Memorial addresses formal and informal allegations of bullying or harassment promptly and sensitively.

The Memorial maintains a positive reporting culture. During 2016, 334 incidents were reported related to visitors, staff, contractors, and hazards. Visitor incidents are the area of highest frequency and continue to be less than 1 per cent of total visitor numbers. Visitor incidents are showing a downward trend.

Initiatives and outcomes

Risk reduction strategies implemented during 2016–17 included an enhanced focus on slip, trip, and fall incidents. This resulted in installation of a platform to the Commemorative Area, application of non-slip edging to steps and stairs, increased lighting levels, and enhanced workplace inspection programs. Success of these initiatives is shown with the rate of incidents trending downward for visitors and staff.

Investigations and WHS Act Part 10 notices

During 2016–17, one incident was reported to Comcare that met the notifiable incident provisions of the WHS Act. This incident related to a worker sustaining an electric shock from a power point. Comcare did not investigate this incident. The table below includes a summary of notifiable incident numbers and investigations for the past three years.

There were no notices issued to the Memorial under Part 10 of the WHS Act.

Remembrance Day 2017 marked the 75th anniversary of the Australian War Memorial. An anniversary dinner was held in Anzac Hall under the Lancaster bomber “G for George”, during which Mr Graham Edwards was presented with a certificate acknowledging his service to Council.
Report by the Auditor-General and Annual Financial Statements
INDEPENDENT AUDITOR’S REPORT
To the Minister for Veterans’ Affairs

Opinion
In my opinion, the financial statements of the Australian War Memorial for the year ended 30 June 2017:
(a) comply with Australian Accounting Standards – Reduced Disclosure Requirements and the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability (Financial Reporting) Rule 2015; and
(b) present fairly the financial position of the Australian War Memorial as at 30 June 2017 and its financial performance and cash flows for the year then ended.

The financial statements of the Australian War Memorial, which I have audited, comprise the following statements as at 30 June 2017 and for the year then ended:
- Statement by the Accountable Authority, Chief Executive and Chief Finance Officer;
- Statement of Comprehensive Income;
- Statement of Financial Position;
- Statement of Changes in Equity;
- Cash Flow Statement; and
- Notes to the financial statements, comprising a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Basis for Opinion
I conducted my audit in accordance with the Australian National Audit Office Auditing Standards, which incorporate the Australian Auditing Standards. My responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor’s Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of my report. I am independent of the Australian War Memorial in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements for financial statement audits conducted by the Auditor-General and his delegates. These include the relevant independence requirements of the Accounting Professional and Ethical Standards Board’s APES 110 Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants to the extent that they are not in conflict with the Auditor-General Act 1997 (the Code). I have also fulfilled my other responsibilities in accordance with the Code. I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my opinion.

Accountable Authority’s Responsibility for the Financial Statements
As the Accountable Authority of the Australian War Memorial the Council is responsible under the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013 for the preparation and fair presentation of annual financial statements that comply with Australian Accounting Standards – Reduced Disclosure Requirements and the rules made under that Act. The Council is also responsible for such internal control as the Council determines is necessary to enable the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the Council is responsible for assessing the Australian War Memorial’s ability to continue as a going concern, taking into account whether the Australian War Memorial’s operations will cease as a result of an administrative restructure or for any other reason. The Council is also responsible for disclosing matters related to going concern as applicable and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the assessment indicates that it is not appropriate.

Auditor’s Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements
My objective is to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor’s report that includes my opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Australian National Audit Office Auditing Standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Australian National Audit Office Auditing Standards, I exercise professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. I also:

- identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control;
- obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity’s internal control;
- evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Accountable Authority;
- conclude on the appropriateness of the Accountable Authority’s use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the entity’s ability to continue as a going concern. If I conclude that a material uncertainty exists, I am required to draw attention in my auditor’s report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify my opinion. My conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of my auditor’s report. However, future events or conditions may cause the entity to cease to continue as a going concern; and
- evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

I communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that I identify during my audit.

Australian War Memorial

STATEMENT BY THE ACCOUNTABLE AUTHORITY, CHIEF EXECUTIVE AND CHIEF FINANCE OFFICER

In our opinion, the attached financial statements for the year ended 30 June 2017 comply with subsection 42(2) of the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013 (PGPA Act), and are based on properly maintained financial records as per subsection 41(2) of the PGPA Act.

In our opinion, at the date of this statement, there are reasonable grounds to believe that the Australian War Memorial will be able to pay its debts as and when they fall due.

This statement is made in accordance with a resolution of the Council of the Memorial.

Overview

Objectives of the Australian War Memorial (the Memorial)
The Memorial was established by section 4 of the Australian War Memorial Act 1980 and is a not-for-profit Australian Government controlled entity.

The objective and outcome of the Memorial is to assist Australians remembering, interpreting, and understanding the Australian experience of war and its enduring impact through maintaining and developing the National Memorial, its collection and exhibition of historical material, commemorative ceremonies and research.

The continued existence of the Memorial in its present form and with its present programs is dependent on Government policy and on continued funding by Parliament for the Memorial's administration and programs.

The Basis of Preparation
The financial statements are general purpose financial statements and are required by section 42 of the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013.

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with:

a) Public Governance, Performance and Accountability (Financial Reporting) Rule 2015 (FRR) for reporting periods ending on or after 1 July 2015; and

b) Australian Accounting Standards and Interpretations issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB) that apply for the reporting period.

The financial statements have been prepared on an accrual basis and in accordance with the historical cost convention, except for certain assets at fair value. Except where stated, no allowance is made for the effect of changing prices on the results or the financial position.

The financial statements are presented in Australian dollars and, where specified, values are rounded to the nearest thousand.

New Accounting Standards
Of the new standards, amendments to standards and interpretations issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board that are applicable to the current reporting period, none has had a material financial impact on the Memorial.

All new, revised or amended standards and/or interpretations that were issued prior to the sign-off date and are applicable to the current reporting period did not have a material impact on the Memorial's financial statements.

Taxation

The Memorial is exempt from all forms of taxation except Fringe Benefits Tax (FBT) and the Goods and Services Tax (GST).

Revenues, expense and assets are recognised net of GST except:

- where the amount of GST incurred is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office; and
- for receivables and payables.

Events After the Reporting Period

There are no events occurring after reporting date that materially affect the financial statements.
Financial Performance

This section analyses the financial performance of the Memorial for the year ended 2017.

<td>1,784</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total sale of goods and rendering of services</td>
<td>4,389</td>
<td>4,471</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Accounting Policy

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised when:

1. the risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the buyer;
2. the Memorial retains no managerial involvement or effective control over the goods;
3. the revenue and transaction costs incurred can be reliably measured; and
4. it is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the entity.

Revenue from rendering of services is recognised by reference to the stage of completion of contracts at the reporting date. The stage of completion of contracts at the reporting date is determined by reference to the proportion that costs incurred to date bear to the estimated total costs of the transaction.

Receivables for goods and services, which have 30 day terms, are recognised at the nominal amounts due less any impairment allowance account. Collectability of debts is reviewed at end of the reporting period. Allowances are made when collectability of the debt is no longer probable.

Accounting Policy

Sponsorship

Project-specific sponsorship funding which meets the requirements of a contribution in accordance with AASB 1004 Contributions is recorded as revenue when the Memorial obtains control of the contribution or right to receive the contribution, it is probable that the economic benefits comprising the contribution will flow to the Memorial, and the amount can be measured reliably.

Donated Heritage and Cultural items

Contribution of assets at no cost of acquisition or for nominal consideration are recognised as income at their fair value when the asset qualifies for recognition.

Accounting Policy

Resources Received Free of Charge

Resources received free of charge are recognised as revenue when, and only when, a fair value can be reliably determined and the services would have been purchased if they had not been donated. Use of those resources is recognised as an expense.

Resources received free of charge are recorded as either revenue or gains depending on their nature.

Accounting Policy

Revenue from Government

Funding received or receivable from non-corporate Commonwealth entities (appropriated to the non-corporate Commonwealth entity as a corporate Commonwealth entity payment item for payment to the Memorial) is recognised as revenue from government by the corporate Commonwealth entity unless it is in the nature of an equity injection or a loan.
Financial Position

This section analyses the Memorial’s assets used to conduct its operations and the operating liabilities incurred as a result. Employee related information is disclosed in the People and Relationships section.

Accounting Policy
Cash is recognised at its nominal amount. Cash and cash equivalents includes:
- a) cash on hand; and
- b) deposits in bank accounts with an original maturity of 3 months or less that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and subject to insignificant risk of changes in value.

Receivables are expected to be recovered in no more than 12 months (2016: no more than 12 months).
Current terms for receivables are net 30 days (2016: 30 days).

Receivables
Trade receivables and other receivables that have fixed or determinable payments and that are not quoted in an active market are classified as ‘receivables’. Receivables are measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method less impairment. Interest is recognised by applying the effective interest rate.

2.1C: Investments
The Memorial’s investments represent term deposits held with Australian banks with terms greater than 90 days. Maturity dates range from July 2017 to May 2018. Effective interest rates range from 2.53 per cent to 2.80 per cent (2016: 2.70 per cent to 3.15 per cent).

No indicators of impairment were found for non-financial assets.
No non-financial assets are expected to be sold or disposed of in the next 12 months.

Revaluations of non-financial assets
All revaluations were conducted in accordance with the revaluation policy stated at Note 2.2A. Independent valuers conducted revaluations of heritage and cultural assets and property, plant and equipment, effective 30 June 2017.

Contractual commitments for the acquisition of property, plant, equipment and intangible assets

The Memorial has entered into net future commitments for the acquisition of buildings, heritage and cultural, plant and equipment, exhibition and intangible assets of $4,735,496 (2015-16; $3,438,000). Significant individual commitments relate to the National Collection, with commitments for fees, until 2063, for a cold storage facility to stabilise nitrate film ($153,000), sculpture commissions ($690,000) and commitments associated with the writing of the independent history of the military legacies of the Vietnam War which will be accessioned into the National Collection when completed ($485,100).
Accounting Policy
Assets are recorded at cost on acquisition except as stated below. The cost of acquisition includes the fair value of assets transferred in exchange and liabilities undertaken. Non-financial assets are initially measured at their fair value plus transaction costs where appropriate.

Assets acquired at no cost, or for nominal consideration, are initially recognised as assets and income at their fair value at the date of acquisition. Significant donated Heritage and Cultural (Collection) assets are recognised at the time of acquisition, and other donated collection items are brought to account at the time of revaluation.

Asset Recognition Threshold
Purchases of property, plant and equipment are recognised initially at cost in the statement of financial position, except for purchases costing less than $2,000, which are expensed in the year of acquisition (other than where they form part of a group of similar items which are significant in total).

The initial cost of an asset includes an estimate of the cost of dismantling and removing the item and restoring the site on which it is located.

Revaluations
Following initial recognition at cost, property, plant and equipment are carried at fair value less subsequent accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses. Valuations are conducted with sufficient frequency to ensure that the carrying amounts of assets did not differ materially from the assets’ fair values as at the reporting date. The regularity of independent valuations depended upon the volatility of movements in market values for the relevant assets.

Revaluation adjustments are made on a class basis. Any revaluation increment is credited to equity under the heading of asset revaluation reserve except to the extent that it reverses a previous revaluation decrement of the same asset class that was previously recognised in the surplus/deficit.

Revaluation decrements for a class of assets are recognised directly in the surplus/deficit except to the extent that they reverse a previous revaluation increment for that class. Any accumulated depreciation as at the revaluation date is eliminated against the gross carrying amount of the asset and the asset restated to the revalued amount.

Depreciation
Depreciable property, plant and equipment assets are written-off to their estimated residual values over their estimated useful lives to the entity using, in all cases, the straight-line method of depreciation.
Depreciation rates (useful lives), residual values and methods are reviewed at each reporting date and necessary adjustments are recognised in the current, or current and future reporting periods, as appropriate.

Depreciation rates applying to each class of depreciable asset are based on the following useful lives:

<thead>
<tr>

<th>2017 Years</th>
<th>2016 Years</th>

</thead>
<tbody>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Impairment
All assets were assessed for impairment at 30 June 2017. Where indications of impairment exist, the asset’s recoverable amount is estimated and an impairment adjustment made if the asset’s recoverable amount is less than its carrying amount.

The recoverable amount of an asset is the higher of its fair value less costs of disposal and its value in use. Value in use is the present value of the future cash flows expected to be derived from the asset. Where the future economic benefit of an asset is not primarily dependent on the asset’s ability to generate future cash flows, and the asset would be replaced if the entity were deprived of the asset, its value in use is taken to be its depreciated replacement cost.

Derecognition
An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised upon disposal or when no further future economic benefits are expected from its use or disposal.

Significant accounting judgements and estimates
The fair value of land and buildings is considered to be the market value of similar assets, taking into account the heritage aspects of the buildings where appropriate, and using depreciated replacement cost if no active market is identified.

Heritage and Cultural (Collection) assets
The Memorial’s collection of heritage and cultural assets comprises a wide range of objects relating to Australia’s military history, including but not limited to:

- Works of art (various media)
- Large technology objects
- Military heraldry and technology items
- Official and private records
- Film
- Audio
- Photographs
- Ephemera

Pursuant to section 8 of the Australian War Memorial Act 1980, the Memorial has the authority to dispose of heritage and cultural items which are not required as part of the National Collection, or are unfit for inclusion. Section 8 of the Australian War Memorial Act 1980 dictates the appropriate approvals to dispose of National Collection assets.

The decision whether or not to acquire or retain an item for the National Collection is based on two criteria:

1. Assessment to establish that the item is of significance to Australian military history.
2. Assessment that the benefit and resource implications of acquiring or retaining the item are acceptable.

The evaluation process ensures that the history and provenance of objects is recorded at the time of acquisition and records the significance of the item to the Australian community, provides a systematic assessment of the values of objects against the existing collection and other collecting institutions, and assists in settling priorities for collection management and conservation resources.

The Memorial’s Collection Development Plan for heritage and cultural assets can be found at: https://www.awm.gov.au/sites/default/files/collection_development_plan.pdf

The Memorial’s preservation and curatorial policies for heritage and cultural assets can be found at: https://www.awm.gov.au/about/our-work/projects/conservation
Revaluations

Heritage and Cultural (Collection) Assets are carried at fair value, which is measured at depreciated replacement cost or market selling price (for items where a market exists).

Following initial recognition at cost, Heritage and Cultural (Collection) Assets are carried at fair value less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses. Valuations are conducted with sufficient frequency such that the carrying amounts of assets do not differ materially from the assets' fair values at the reporting date. The regularity of independent valuations depends upon the volatility of movements in market values for the relevant assets.

Depreciation

All Heritage and Cultural (Collection) Assets are written off over their estimated useful life to the Memorial using the straight-line method of depreciation.

Depreciation rates (useful lives) have been estimated based on the condition and physical composition of items in each sub-class, and range from 5 to 600 years. Rates and methods are reviewed at each reporting date and necessary adjustments are recognised in the current, or current and future reporting periods, as appropriate.

Significant accounting judgements and estimates

The fair value of Heritage and Cultural (Collection) Assets is considered to be market selling price (where such a market exists), or depreciated replacement cost, taking into consideration the intrinsic value of historically significant objects.

Owing to the size of the National Collection, a representative sample of major categories is selected and valued, and the results are used to determine a total fair value.

Intangibles

The Memorial's intangibles comprise purchased software, which are carried at cost less accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses.

Software is amortised on a straight-line basis over its anticipated useful life. The useful lives range from 1 to 11 years (2016: 2 to 10 years).

All software assets were assessed for indications of impairment as at 30 June 2017.

Accounting Policy

The Memorial holds inventory for sale only, and this is reported at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs incurred in bringing each item of inventory to its present location and condition are assigned as follows:

- stores – average purchase cost; and
- finished goods and work-in-progress – cost of direct materials and labour plus attributable costs that are capable of being allocated on a reasonable basis.

<td>8,978</td>
<td>8,217</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total employee provisions</td>
<td>8,978</td>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Accounting policy

Liabilities for short-term employee benefits and termination benefits expected within twelve months of the end of reporting period are measured at their nominal amounts.

Other long-term employee benefits are measured as the present value of the estimated future cash outflows to be made in respect of services provided by employees up to the reporting date.

Leave

The liability for employee benefits includes provision for annual leave and long service leave. No provision has been made for sick leave as all sick leave is non-vesting and the average sick leave taken in future years by employees of the Memorial is estimated to be less than the annual entitlement for sick leave.

The leave liabilities are calculated on the basis of employees' remuneration at the estimated salary rates that will be applied at the time the leave is taken, including the Memorial's employer superannuation contribution rates to the extent that the leave is likely to be taken during service rather than paid out on termination.

The liability for long service leave is recognised and measured at the net present value of the estimated future cash flows to be made in respect of all employees at reporting date. In determining the present value of the liability, including related on-costs, attrition rates and pay increases through promotion and inflation have been taken into account.

Separation and Redundancy

Provision is made for separation and redundancy benefit payments. The Memorial recognises a provision for termination when it has developed a detailed formal plan for the terminations and has informed those employees affected that it will carry out the terminations.

Superannuation

The Memorial's staff are members of the Commonwealth Superannuation Scheme (CSS), the Public Sector Superannuation Scheme (PSS), or the PSS accumulation plan (PSSap), or other superannuation funds held outside the Australian Government.

The CSS and PSS are defined benefit schemes for the Australian Government. The PSSap is a defined contribution scheme.

The liability for defined benefits is recognised in the financial statements of the Australian Government and is settled by the Australian Government in due course. This liability is reported in the Department of Finance's administered schedules and notes.
The Memorial makes employer contributions to the employees' defined benefit superannuation scheme at rates determined by an actuary to be sufficient to meet the current cost to the Government. The Memorial accounts for the contributions as if they were contributions to defined contribution plans.

The liability for superannuation recognised as at 30 June represents outstanding contributions for the final fortnight of the quarter.

In line with the government's 'Stronger Super' reforms, the Memorial has completed a software upgrade to meet compliance obligations under SuperStream.

Accounting judgements and estimates

Employee provisions includes an estimation component in respect of long-term employee benefits measured as the present value of estimated future cash outflows.

This accounting estimate has been identified to have minimal risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amount of the provision in the next accounting period.

4.2 Key Management Personnel Remuneration

Key management personnel are those persons having authority and responsibility for planning, directing and controlling the activities of the Memorial, directly or indirectly, including any director (whether executive or otherwise). The Memorial has determined the key management personnel to be the Director, Chairman, Council Members and Assistant Directors. Key management personnel remuneration is reported in the table below:

<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>2017</th>

</table>

The total number of key management personnel that are included in the above table is 19. They include the Chairman and members of Council and senior executive personnel. (2016: 19). When senior executives are on extended leave, or act for the Director, their positions are back-filled. The above figures include payments made to staff acting in senior executive positions.

4.3 Related Party Disclosures

Related party relationships:
The Memorial is an Australian Government controlled entity. Related parties to this entity are Directors, Key Management Personnel and other Australian Government entities.

Transactions with related parties:
Given the breadth of Government activities, related parties may transact with the government sector in the same capacity as ordinary citizens. Such transactions include the payment or refund of taxes, receipt of a Medicare rebate or higher education loans. These transactions have not been separately disclosed in this note.

Significant transactions with related parties can include:

- purchases of goods and services;

Giving consideration to relationships with related entities, and transactions entered into during the reporting period by the Memorial, it has been determined that there are no related party transactions to be separately disclosed.

Managing uncertainties

This section analyses how the Memorial manages financial risks within its operating environment.

5.1 Contingent Assets and Liabilities

Contingent assets and liabilities are not recognised in the statement of financial position but contingent assets are disclosed when settlement is probable but not virtually certain and contingent liabilities are disclosed when settlement is greater than remote.

The Memorial has one quantifiable contingent asset in respect of a bequest $18,500 (2016: $113,300). This amount represents a distribution after the sale of shares and other assets. There were no contingent liabilities in the current reporting period (2016: nil).

Accounting Policy

Financial assets

The Memorial classifies its financial assets in the following categories:

- held-to-maturity investments; and
- receivables.

The classification depends on the nature and purpose of the financial assets and is determined at the time of initial recognition. Financial assets are recognised and derecognised upon trade date.

Effective Interest Method

Income is recognised on an effective interest rate basis except for financial assets that are recognised at fair value through profit or loss.

Held-to-maturity Investments

Non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments and fixed maturity dates that the Memorial has the positive intent and ability to hold to maturity are classified as held-to-maturity investments. Held-to-maturity investments are recorded at amortised cost using the effective interest method less impairment, with revenue recognised on an effective yield basis.

Receivables

Trade receivables and other receivables that have fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market are classified as “receivables”. Receivables are measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method less impairment. Interest is recognised by applying the effective interest rate.
Impairment of Financial Assets

Financial assets are assessed for impairment at the end of each reporting period.

Financial assets held at amortised cost

If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss has been incurred for receivables or held to maturity investments held at amortised cost, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the asset’s carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows discounted at the asset’s original effective interest rate. The carrying amount is reduced by way of an allowance account. The loss is recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

Financial liabilities

The Memorial classifies its financial liabilities as other financial liabilities. Financial liabilities are recognised and derecognised upon ‘trade date’.

Other Financial Liabilities

Supplier and other payables are recognised at amortised cost. Liabilities are recognised to the extent that the goods or services have been received (and irrespective of having been invoiced).

5.3 Fair Value Measurement

Accounting Policy

The Memorial procured independent valuation services from Pickles Valuations for property, plant and equipment and Asset Valuations for those heritage and cultural assets scheduled for revaluation this year. The Memorial has relied on valuation models provided by these valuers and external actuaries. The Memorial tests the procedures of the valuation model at least once every 12 months.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Memorial’s heritage and cultural assets are identical or similar items through recorded auction sales, catalogues and known private collections. Significant increases (decreases) in any of those inputs in isolation would result in a significantly higher (lower) fair value measurement.

Generally, a change in the assumption used for professional appraisals of similar iconic items is accompanied by a directionally similar change in the assumption used for private sales of similar iconic items.

No assets were transferred between Levels 1 and 2 during the reporting period. The highest and best use of all non-financial assets is the same as their current use.

6.1 Assets Held in Trust

The following monies are not available for other purposes of the Memorial and are not recognised in the financial statements.

6.1A: Florance Foundation Trust Fund - monetary asset

During 1979-80 an amount of $3,000 was provided by Mrs D Florance of Bowral, NSW, on condition that it is invested and the interest used to bring disadvantaged children to the Memorial. To this, the Memorial added $5,000, bringing the total of the Florance Foundation to $8,000. In 1985-86 the Australian War Memorial Fund paid a further $10,000 into the Florance Foundation so that sufficient interest is generated to ensure the purpose of the Florance Foundation can continue. The Florance Foundation's current financial position, which is reported on a cash basis, is as follows:

The current policy is for the trust fund to contribute the interest earned on the account towards the cost of fares associated with the transportation of disadvantaged children to the Memorial, as part of the ANZAC Day commemorations. The Legacy Co-ordinating Council and the Memorial together meet the balance of the fares' cost.

6.1B: Australian War Memorial Krait Fund - monetary asset

In April 1985, the Memorial received the MV Krait and $50,000 from the Z Special Unit Association Krait Public Museum Fund. The monies, together with interest, are held in a separate bank account, as provided for in the agreement with the trustees of the Krait Fund. These funds are for the conservation of the MV Krait. The interest earned is transferred to the National Maritime Museum of Australia for maintenance work on the MV Krait. Most recently Ms Lloyd was responsible for the strategic development and rollout of major B2C, B2B, and e-commerce digital solutions for Sanofi, a multinational company in the pharmaceutical industry.

Ms Katherine McMahon was appointed Head of Exhibitions in 2006 and has played an instrumental role in developing the strategic direction of the Memorial’s exhibitions program. Ms McMahon has overseen $70 million of major gallery redevelopment projects and delivered permanent exhibitions on the First World War, Second World War, Korea, Vietnam, peacekeeping, First Gulf War, Iraq, and Afghanistan. She most recently oversaw the $32 million redevelopment of the Memorial’s historic and heritage-listed First World War galleries. This project was a key part of the package of commemorative events and initiatives of the Australian Government’s Anzac Centenary Program 2014–18. Ms McMahon holds a Bachelor of Arts (Art History and Curatorship) from the Australian National University. Ms McMahon is on temporary transfer to the National Museum of Australia until 30 August 2018.

Ms Suzanne Myers has worked at the Australian War Memorial for over 20 years and has held various positions in the Exhibitions section since 2004. As a senior member of the Exhibitions team for the past 12 years, Ms Myers has played a key role in the development and implementation of the strategic direction of the exhibitions program and played a major role in the development of large, permanent, exhibition projects including the redevelopment of the First World War galleries, Conflicts 1945 to today galleries including the Discovery Zone and C.E.W. Bean Building, and the Hall of Valour redevelopment. Ms Myers also led and managed the development, production, and installation of; Afghanistan: the Australian story, and the redevelopment of Middle East gallery.

Ms Myers was appointed as acting Head of Exhibitions in January 2017 and is responsible for the development and management of the Memorial’s galleries and exhibitions program including the planning, implementation, and maintenance of 13,000 sq m of permanent exhibitions and galleries, temporary and special exhibitions and displays, and a national touring program.
Dr Brendan Nelson AO commenced as Director of the Australian War Memorial on 17 December 2012. Prior to this, he was the Australian Ambassador to Belgium, Luxembourg, the European Union, and NATO (2009–12). Apart from overseeing a major transformation in Australia’s relationships with the European Union and NATO, Dr Nelson forged deep links with the communities of Flanders, where almost 13,000 Australians lost their lives during the First World War.

Dr Nelson studied at Flinders University, South Australia, where he graduated with a Bachelor of Medicine and Surgery. He worked as a medical practitioner in Hobart from 1985 to 1995. In 1993 he was elected unopposed as National President of the Australian Medical Association (AMA).

In 1996 Dr Nelson was elected to the Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia. After the 2001 election, he was promoted from his role as Parliamentary Secretary for Defence to Cabinet in the senior portfolio of Minister for Education, Science and Training, driving major reforms to universities and a focus on school standards and reporting.

In 2006 he became Minister for Defence when troops were deployed to Iraq, Afghanistan, East Timor, and Solomon Islands. He oversaw major new investments in defence, including the decision to purchase 24 FA-18F Super Hornets, three air warfare destroyers, two Landing Helicopter Docks (LHDs), two additional battalions for the Australian Army, and a multi-billion dollar recruitment and retention package. In November 2007 Dr Nelson was elected leader of the Liberal Party of Australia, serving as Leader of the Opposition until September 2008. The following year he retired from federal politics before taking up his ambassadorial appointment.

Ms Leanne Patterson has been the Memorial’s Chief Finance Officer (CFO) since December 2007 and has been acting Assistant Director, Corporate Services, since January 2016. She joined the Memorial in December 1999 as Manager, Financial Reporting and Analysis, and was primarily focused on developing the framework to support the funding, valuation, and depreciation of the Memorial’s billion-dollar collection of heritage and cultural assets. As CFO, Ms Patterson has successfully influenced the outcome of government-wide financial and budget reforms as they relate to the Memorial, through regular participation in formal working groups, inquiries, and other consultative processes. Ms Patterson is a Fellow of CPA Australia and has a Bachelor of Commerce (Accounting) from James Cook University. Leanne is an active member of the ACT CPA Public Sector Accountants Committee.

Mr Hans Reppin has been the Head of Photographs, Film, Sound and Multimedia Services since March 2014, and manages the Multimedia and Digital Asset Management System. His background includes a diverse range of managerial positions and technical responsibilities. Mr Reppin’s specialised professional background encompasses digital preservation management, Prolab experience within the television industry (motion picture, news, traditional film base processing, exhibition and commercial print outputs), and press and production photography experience garnered over 20 years. He is applying his expertise to digital content management and preservation within a museum environment as a digital advocate and innovator.

Mr Tim Sullivan was appointed Assistant Director Branch Head National Collection in May 2013. He graduated from the University of Sydney where he studied history, English literature, and education. Mr Sullivan has qualifications in earth sciences and a Masters in Management with a focus on museum development from the University of Technology, Sydney. His career has encompassed technical and managerial roles in the Geological Survey of NSW, the NSW Department of Mineral Resources, the Australian Museum, and the Sovereign Hill Museums Association, Ballarat. In 1999–2000, Mr Sullivan was a Visiting Fellow with the Smithsonian Institution’s National Museum of the American Indian in Washington DC. He has served on the Museums Board of Victoria and is a member of the National Cultural Heritage Committee. Mr Sullivan has served on a diverse range of committees promoting regional research and development, heritage management, commemorative projects, and museum development. He has contributed to national and international forums on museum practice and development, and has written widely on the role of museums in promoting learning and regional heritage strategies.

Ms Robyn van Dyk is Head of the Australian War Memorial’s Research Centre. Her work involves leading the Research Centre team to develop, manage, preserve, and provide access to the Memorial’s archival and published collections. Ms van Dyk has curated a variety of exhibitions, including co-curating the MAGNA award-winning Anzac voices (2014) and a joint exhibition with Australian Geospatial-Intelligence Organisation, Gallipoli to Afghanistan and the future: 100 years of mapping (2015). She is the concept leader for Anzac connections, the Memorial’s major centenary web project to enhance availability and access to digital content. Ms van Dyk has produced museum-related publications and delivered papers at national conferences. In October 2012, she travelled to Afghanistan as the Memorial’s official curator, and spent several weeks observing conditions and collecting records and objects. Ms van Dyk has recently partnered with the Australian National University in an ARC-funded project researching Australians in Borneo during the Second World War.

Ms van Dyk has recently partnered with the Australian National University in an ARC-funded project researching Australians in Borneo during the Second World War.
Mr Chris Wagner was appointed Head of Communications and Marketing at the Australian War Memorial in May 2016. He and his team are responsible for media, public relations, marketing, publications, the Friends of the Memorial, and the broader sponsorship program of the Memorial. Mr Wagner has over 15 years’ experience in the communication sector, working in ministerial offices, government departments, and for a number of not-for-profit and corporate organisations. A former journalist, Mr Wagner has a background in matters of mental health, suicide, criminal and civil justice, national security emergency management, and grassroots community liaison. He has a First Class Honours Degree in Journalism and is a White Ribbon Ambassador.
